

Seattle Yacht Dorade Leads in Swiftsure Race

Eleven-year-old Arvid Andersen was one of several hundred Dallas Road spectators who watched start of the annual Swiftsure ocean yacht race at 10 a.m. today. Fifteen entries got away to one of the closest starts in recent years, with Capt. Billy Holms' Dragon, lone Victoria entry, first across the line by inches off Brochie Ledge. The annual 126-mile race to the lightship and return started under sunny skies, with light winds prevailing. Winds in the Strait were expected to be westerly, 15 to 20 miles an hour, indicating that the smaller yachts will be the leading contenders for the trophy. Early this afternoon, as the racers beat toward Race Rocks, the Seattle Yacht Club sloop, Dorade, was in the lead, closely followed by the schooner Red Jacket (Seattle) and Polho III (also of Seattle, formerly called Gossip, and a three-time winner). Other yachts, in order were: Adios (Seattle), Alatola (Corinthian Yacht Club), Maruffa (Seattle), Dragoon (Victoria), Westward Ho (Corinthian), Circe (Seattle), Gometra (Vancouver), Totem (Corinthian), Jenetta (Vancouver), Reverie (Tacoma), Elusive (Vancouver) and Armida (Corinthian).—(Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Australian Gov't Wins Re-Election

SPLIT SECOND TIMING FOR EVENTS AT B.E.G.

Recording the exact times established by the Commonwealth's best athletes will be done by the most modern instruments in existence at the British Empire Games in Vancouver in August. There'll even be photo-finish equipment for the top running events.

Andy O'Brien tells about it in a special article in Weekend Picture Magazine in this issue.

Menzies Coalition Has Majority Cut

SYDNEY (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies' Liberal-Country Party coalition has been re-elected with a reduced majority, it was indicated at the close of counting of votes tonight in Australia's general election.

Incomplete returns apparently ensured the government's return to power with a majority of approximately seven seats over the Labor opposition. The government appeared certain of 60 seats to 55 for Labor. The remaining six were doubtful with four considered likely to go to the coalition forces.

Menzies, Opposition Leader Herbert V. Evatt and External Affairs Minister Richard Casey all won personal victories.

Rescuers 1,000 Ft. From Injured Man

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A rescue party of eight men clawed its way today up the rugged slopes of snow-covered Mount McKinley, toward a tiny tent housing a man they hope is still alive.

The rescue party, spurred by clearing weather and air-dropped provisions, radioed its base this morning it was within 1,000 feet of the tent in which Pfc. George Argus is lying. The rescuers said they expected to reach the tent by late afternoon.

The tent was sighted from the air late Friday night by Morton Wood, one of three survivors of a 1,000-foot fall May 15 which killed one man and left Argus helpless with a broken hip.

As a swirling snowstorm, which had made flight over the area impossible, let up Friday night, the United States Air Force flew Wood over McKinley in a C-47. He spotted the tent standing undamaged at the 11,000-foot level.

From the plane, Wood gave radioed instruction to the ground party, and with renewed hope that Argus might still be alive, the rescuers below pushed ahead.

The air force also dropped the ground party provisions. The ground party was split in two sections. In the lead were five experienced mountain climbers. Another rescue group of three men followed them.

The 25-year-old Argus was left on the mountainside when Wood and Les Viebeck, a third survivor, had to give up their attempt to bring him down the tortuous slopes alone. They left Argus in the tent last Sunday after spending a week waiting for help that never came.

Argus was warmly wrapped, lying on an air mattress. He had enough food to carry him through this week.

The temperature, at the tent level, was 10 to 50 degrees above zero.

Policy Change Considered To Allow Restaurant Cocktails

BY TOM GOULD
Times Legislative Reporter

The provincial government is giving active consideration to major policy changes in the implementation of B.C.'s new liquor act.

One of the changes, on which a decision is expected within six months, is that of allowing restaurants not attached to hotels to serve cocktails, in addition to wines and beer.

It is felt that after a six-month period in which "bugs" can be worked out of the new act, a number of restaurants will be allowed dining lounge licenses, instead of the dining room licenses now available.

Government officials say the current policy is one of "wait-and-see," but that in view of evidence already coming to light, the changes are almost certain.

Germ War Tests

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Navy confirmed today that a British tank landing ship, Ben Lomond, has returned to Nassau after carrying out secret germ-warfare tests in the Caribbean area.

One of the most vital pieces of evidence is the manner in which the new outlets have been accepted by residents of the areas in which outlets now have been opened.

There has been no rush on the outlets, in fact most operators say they are surprised at the small amount of liquor sales.

At the fall session of the Legislature last year, when the new act was approved, some members including government members reached the conclusion, after a survey of the act, that restaurants would be granted dining lounge licenses.

There is nothing in the act specifically denying them the dining lounge type of license.

Restaurant owners and their customers have been unanimous in opposing the present policy of allowing the sale only of wine and beer.

The restaurants, at least those which have been in operation for more than a month, are discovering the same fact experienced by Ontario cafes which served wine and beer only; it doesn't pay.

Customers feel the government has denied them their right to drink cocktails, and liquors, with meals, as well as wine and beer.

Not even a change in regulations would be required to bring about the change. The regulations state only that dining lounge licenses will be issued "principally" to cabarets and clubs.

Gibson Asks Full Probe Of PGE Plans

VANCOUVER (BUP)—James Gordon Gibson (Lib., Lillooet) today called for an investigation into the entire Pacific Great Eastern Railway construction program.

The demand came on the heels of a report Friday and subsequent denial by the Social Credit government of plans to drop the proposed Squamish to North Vancouver link of the government-owned line.

Gibson said after hearing a report carried in a Vancouver newspaper, "I am convinced that a full investigation should be made on all phases of the railway construction before any actual work is undertaken."

The report quoted Premier W. A. C. Bennett as saying that he had been "misinformed" regarding the route over which the line should pass.

Bennett denied the whole report as a "cleverly worded bubble based on exactly nothing."

French, Reds to Talk Truce; Conference Credited to Eden

GENEVA (Reuters)—The nine powers discussing an Indo-China settlement today agreed to a meeting of French and Viet Minh military delegates next week to arrange cease-fire terms.

A conference source said the nine-power talks are "going well" and cables have already been sent to Indo-China to summon the military delegates to Geneva.

The key points at issue on today's agenda, he said, were settled, paving the way for the talks.

The decision to invite representatives of the rival high commands in Indo-China marked the first major decision of the Far East conference. But Western officials emphasized there are still serious obstacles to overcome before the shooting can be stopped in the war.

It was understood the agreement came in a surprise call British Foreign Secretary Eden made Friday night on Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. Eden

AUSTRALIAN CAPTURES BRITISH GOLF CROWN

GULLANE, Scotland (UP)—Doug Bachli, a tiny, 34-year-old Australian pub-owner, battled from behind to win the British Amateur golf championship today, defeating Bill Campbell of Huntingdon, W.Va., 2 and 1.

After being 1 down at the 27th Bachli squared the match again at the 32nd when Campbell drove into the rough. Campbell got into more trouble off the 33rd tee and conceded the hole, putting Bachli 1 up. On the 34th Campbell fluffed his second shot, missed a 15-foot putt and Bachli was dormie two. The 35th was halved and the match was over.

'ORDERLY, NO TROUBLE'

No Stampede of Drinkers To City Eating Places

Predictions that liquor consumption would greatly increase under B.C. new drinking system have not been borne out by Victoria's first week during the plan.

A survey of restaurant owners who are now serving wine and beer with meals in the city reveals that operation of the new act is anti-climactic.

All owners report orderly drinking, and no trouble. Patrons who take wine or beer have "one or two" with their meal, and then leave.

There has been no rush or stampede to the new outlets, although food sales are up as much as 20 per cent in one restaurant.

Many customers merely have exchanged a coffee and a sandwich for a beer and a sandwich. All outlets report "no difficulty."

At least one owner is finding that serving wine and beer is not as profitable as was expected. Labor costs are increased, and in the words of the operator: "It looks like a small net-profit for a lot of extra work."

The Strathcona started serving wines Friday night, joining Paul's Dominion and Sussex, and the Cameo, while the Waldorf will start liquor serving operations next week.

ENGLISH GIRL CRACKS FIVE-MINUTE MILE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Diane Leather of Birmingham became the first woman to run a mile in less than five minutes, when she clocked four minutes, 59.6 seconds here today.

ALSOPS ON NEW RED BOMBERS

Continental Defense Hampered By U.S. Errors, Heel Dragging

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON—The Soviet heavy bomber program is now approximately two years ahead of the schedule forecast for it by the American military intelligence analysis.

Because of this unforeseen success, the air-atomic striking power of the Soviet Union, now being reinforced with hydrogen bombs, may soon be fairly close to catching up with America's air-atomic striking power.

An American lead can no doubt be maintained. But two years are perhaps allowed, before this country is gravely threatened by the Soviet Strategic Air Army, as the Soviet Union is now threatened by our Strategic Air Command.

This short run prospect, combined with the somewhat longer run but no less bleak prospects in the field of intercontinental guided missiles, can be expected to have far-reaching effects on American and free world planning and policy.

The world knows one—but only one—of the facts that form the basis of the foregoing new assessment. In the May Day air show at Moscow, the Red Air Force somewhat ostentatiously exhibited a new four-engine jet bomber. This plane, called the Tupolev-33, is comparable to our own B-52.

A Few Problems In Organization

By ABT STOTT

IN Winnipeg the other day Social Credit leaders met to map plans for the next federal election, which is probably three years off.

At the close of the session they announced preparations to run a candidate in every constituency. Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta attacked critics who said that Social Credit was based only on "some fantastic monetary reform theory." And Mr. Solon Low said that the next three months would be spent building up "pretty fair organizations" in Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba.

These facts emerge from the fragmentary report of meetings from which Premier Bennett returned recently.

You read the account of the conference and it revived a few memories. You recalled Mr. Bennett's announcement when, flushed with the enthusiasm of a provincial victory last year, he explained the Social Credit would take over the federal administration in "two bites."

The first bite last August wasn't too imposing. Social Credit did elect four federal members from British Columbia, where no federal Social Credit had been elected before. And the movement added one to the previous federal total from Alberta, making that province's representation in Ottawa 11. Still, 15 seats in a total of 265 is more a nibble than a bite. Use the golf idiom, if you like, and call it a practice swing before the drive. That could be a Social Credit definition of the results.

However the opposing parties regard the initial strike, they shouldn't be inclined to laugh at the remarks of Mr. Low on "pretty fair organizations" being set up in other provinces. Last June Victoria learned, as other parts of the province had learned before it, that Social Credit can do a pretty fair job of setting up pretty fair organizations.

Grass-Roots Emphasis

Emphasis is placed on the grass-roots character of the organization. Groups meet in private houses—neighbors together—the Social Credit identity is established, membership fees are collected and 10 paid-up members entitle the group to send a delegate to the next larger body, where nomination of candidates takes place.

When a party has been in power long enough, it isn't hard to find people who have developed resentments against it. A man who is well-fed, well-housed and well-clothed can be seriously irritated by the way a pair of new shoes may pinch, by the way a downspout from his roof needs attention and by the way some of his food gives him indigestion. Human nature can express itself in a similar way politically as a complaint against things as they are.

Provincial Social Credit appeared to capitalize on that human inclination last June and in the preceding June. It was not singularly successful with the technique last August.

In British Columbia that appeal has lost some strength. It can no longer attract the discontented provincially because Social Credit is the Government. Its problem will be to counteract any discontent which arises against the "status quo"—its administration. One way of doing that is by diverting attention to the federal field.

In the meantime, British Columbia Social Credit has to crystallize into a form recognizable to its adherents. It can no longer be all things to all men. It can't be merely against this and that. It has to be for something—something a little more concrete than virtue, motherhood and Christianity.

Is Mr. Bennett's Alberti speech an indication of what it is for? Does he take a leaf from political Dickens to present "Great Expectations" in the way of multi-million-dollar industrial development and West Coast roads? If he does, who puts up the money?

Calculated Vagueness

The Premier makes the point that he's not promising anything. That helps to give the whole proposal a desirable vagueness. Like the late Prime Minister King, Mr. Bennett has been careful to leave himself an escape hatch. He can always say he never said his Government would do it.

What positive form, then, is Social Credit going to take?

Premier Manning says it isn't based only on "some fantastic monetary reform theory." Yet Social Credit members at Ottawa repeatedly express a monetary reform theory that appears fantastic to orthodox finance. Mr. Bennett, in the Provincial Legislature last session, was asked whether or not he supported the financial theories advanced by certain of his dyed-in-the-wool Social Crediters. His reply followed a formal wording: "The answer is 'Yes.'"

At the British Columbia provincial level—prior to the last by-election—the Social Crediters showed a genius for organization—that form of organization which delivered the votes.

The very procedures that worked well at the polls have drawn backs once the voting is over. Mr. Bennett could not conceal the fact that little responsibility was placed in the Government's back-benchers in the last session. They were the people who had won public support in their ridings, but they weren't given much to do in the House legislative debate.

And while that question is being resolved, another interesting development arises locally. In Winnipeg, Mr. Low declared the Conservatives had finally another party replacing them. In Victoria, Mrs. Norah Lindsay reports that, "The (recent) Conservative meeting in Esquimalt lining 'the splendid gains in membership and the increasing was indeed one to be remembered' with Deane Finlayson outnumber of young people's groups being formed in B.C."

How does the former Conservative Mr. Bennett answer that? With the Gracie Fields song "They're dead but they won't lie down?"

INDIAN FARMERS

Jacques Cartier found large fields of maize, or Indian corn, growing at Hochelaga, site of Montreal, in 1534.

FOR THE SECOND successive year, J. G. Rutan was re-elected president of the Victoria Bar Association at an annual meeting at the courthouse Friday. He is a partner in the law firm of Straith, Rutan & Davidson and was a former Oak Bay councillor. Other officers elected were Alan Baker, vice-president; Gerald J. Sullivan, treasurer, and John McIlree, secretary. The meeting was followed by a dinner at the Union Club where Attorney-General R. W. Bonner, Q.C. was guest speaker.

JUST for the RECORD

OVERDUE—Note to 11-year-olds. Free enterprise can be carried too far.

Police officers in Vancouver picked up a boy of that vintage attempting to sell a volume of an encyclopedia in front of a downtown garage.

The garage owner had no objections but the city librarian was upset. The book was overdue.

OCCUPIED — In Oxnard, Calif., Miss Mary Moore didn't notice the car in front of her was occupied when she repeatedly bumped it with her auto to make more room in a tight parking lot. It was occupied, however, by two policemen. They charged her with intoxication.

VIGILANT — In Houston, Tex., Louis Trapolina, a parking meter collector for more than 15 years, limped home yesterday.

A vigilant dog leaped from a parked car and bit Trapolina when he emptied the parking meter in which the dog's owner had deposited a nickel.

ONE SHEET IN WIND: In Fort Worth, Texas, a 35-year-old woman, struck by a car yesterday, was glad when the ambulance arrived.

She didn't need medical attention—just the sheet from the stretcher. She was clad only in anklets, brassiere and a blouse.

Police charged her with intoxication.

AWAKENING: In Oxford, England, undergraduates Ronnie Eden and Alastair Forsyth stood back to back, marched 12 paces, then turned and fired blank cartridges at each other yesterday in a "duel" over a woman in a meadow behind Christchurch College.

The "woman"—pretty art student Prudence Taylor—arrived at the scene on the arm of a third man and applauded loudly.

Eden and Forsyth glared at her and went to a nearby pub to buy each other a drink.

Senator Fires Back at Criticism; Gets Support From Chairman Mundt

(From UP and AP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Stuart Symington said today Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's bid for federal workers to defy the president and give him secret information would destroy the nation's security.

The Missouri Democrat spoke as McCarthy appeared willing to battle the whole Eisenhower administration. He invited government employees to furnish him information despite presidential directives.

The Wisconsin Republican said he intends to get information about communism and corruption from anyone he can, and he promised to protect his informants "to the fullest."

Temporary chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), backed up McCarthy's stand. Mundt said most Congressional investigators start from classified information leaked by government employees and he doesn't care if President Eisenhower did call it reprehensible.

"That's the way you play the game," Mundt told reporters. Firing in all directions, McCarthy replied: Eisenhower is "an extremely busy man" and "is getting bad advice."

He stands on his position that federal employees are "duty-bound to give me information even though some little bureaucrat stamped it secret to protect himself."

The issues spewed out of the inquiry into charges that McCarthy and his aides improperly sought favored army treatment for Pte. G. David Schine, a former unpaid sub-committee consultant, and the McCarthy camp's contention that top army officials used Schine as a "hostage" in efforts to sidetrack an investigation into alleged Communists in army installations.

Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel, got in some under-oath denials Friday of these charges, but the sub-committee quit until Tuesday with cross-examination of him by special counsel Ray H. Jenkins still unfinished.

Sask. Girl Struck By Lightning Bolt

MELFORT, Sask. (CP) — Eight-year-old Janet Kidd was planting seeds in a backyard with a friend Friday night, oblivious of threatening thunder showers.

A bolt of lightning struck, stripping the clothes from Janet and burning off her hair. Hospital officials reported the child in "very critical" condition, suffering severe brain injuries. Her companion escaped injury.

Smart University School Cadets Lower Flag

University School Cadets Shine In Year's First Sunset Ceremony

By TONY DICKASON

"It reminds me of the guards," said an elderly lady Friday night when the University School Cadet Corps went through traditional sunset ceremonies at the Cenotaph.

She was more than half right. The drill was flawless. A fair crowd watched the cadets march from the formation point behind the old post office, down Government Street and on to the green surrounding the Cenotaph and flag. Parents brought children to watch the ceremonies.

The crowd wasn't large, probably 400 persons, strung along the march route and at the ceremonial spot. An early threat of rain likely kept many more would-be observers away. As the 48-man company and the cadet band, under direction of Band Sergeant Julio Leon, marched past the Cenotaph, it was a precise "eyes right." Then "present arms" followed when cadets were lined up on the green. The impressive "slow march" followed to rolling drums.

The flag-lowering ceremony then took place with the color party consisting of Cadet Sgt. Michael Fox, 17, and Cadets John Schaefer and Philip Brown, both 13. The cadets took the flag down and handed it, folded, to the sergeant, who turned it over to RCMP Constable R. G. Boulton, who stood at attention during the procedure at the flag-lowering with Constable Desmond Gore-Hickman.

On hand also was a city police motorcycle escort during the parade to the Cenotaph, and two members of the Legion of Frontiersmen, G. McPherson and T. E. Rigby.

Cadets were under the command of Lieut. Cyril Genge and Cadet Capt. Barry Roome.

The ceremony will be performed again Thursday, after which the Canadian Scottish (Princess Marys) will take over. Sunset ceremonies will be held June 4, 11 and 18.

the cost of medical care

THAT the cost of medical care has risen, no one can deny. But the rise has not been out of proportion to the general advance in the cost of living. At the same time the quality of medical service has been immeasurably improved.

Consider that today your physician has invested from eight to ten years and about ten thousand dollars in his education alone. He has no chance to earn until he is twenty-six or twenty-seven years old. He must have an office in a good neighborhood, good equipment, a car, good clothes.

Pharmacy, too, has stepped up its standards. Almost every state now requires four years of college and a year or two of practice before registration. All this adds up to better medical service for you.

PGE Will Reach N. Vancouver, Wicks Asserts

Minister Denies Abandonment Report

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks Friday told the Victoria Building Industries Exchange that the PGE definitely will reach North Vancouver.

Mr. Wicks joined Premier Bennett and other members of the cabinet in emphatic denials of reports the southern extension, from Squamish to North Vancouver, eventually would be abandoned in favor of the proposed Howe Sound road.

The labor minister was guest speaker at the Building Industries Exchange meeting, which saw the re-election of president Ed McKinty, and vice-president Bill Dillabough for a one-year term.

Mr. Wicks dealt at length with his new Labor Relations Act, which has been bitterly attacked by labor and management. He said the new act, which replaces the ICA Act, will be proclaimed and put into operation "reasonably soon."

The labor minister said the conciliation service, which will play a far greater part in labor-management bargaining, had been strengthened, and standards raised.

The labor minister said the conciliation service, which will play a far greater part in labor-management bargaining, had been strengthened, and standards raised.

Mr. Wicks dealt at length with his new Labor Relations Act, which has been bitterly attacked by labor and management. He said the new act, which replaces the ICA Act, will be proclaimed and put into operation "reasonably soon."

Asian Pact Favored But No Commitment Planned Yet—Pearson

Collective Security Principle Essential But Canada's Potential Not Unlimited

OTTAWA (CP)—The government believes in the principle of a military pact for Southeast Asia but will make no military commitments now to join such an alliance.

External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday that Canada has no commitments to maintain world security other than those implicit in her membership in the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

That included Indo-China. He said that, desirable as it may be to have a Southeast Asia pact similar to NATO, Canada is not a party to any such plan and would not enter one or any similar additional commitment without consulting parliament.

Mr. Pearson, recently returned from the Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China, also said: "We cannot support the principle of collective security in one part of the world and reject it in another."

Advanced Step, Says Diefenbaker

This brought from John Diefenbaker PC-Prince Albert, the Opposition's foreign affairs critic, the declaration that Mr. Pearson had "gone farther in the commitment of Canada in its world responsibilities than any government has ever gone before."

Later, Opposition Leader Drew said Mr. Pearson had carried the government "farther into acceptance of responsibilities than it has gone at any time before."

Before the end of the one-day debate arising out of Mr. Pearson's report to the Commons on the Geneva conference, the minister replied briefly to the deductions of Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Drew.

"I would not like it to be understood that in using those words I have added any commitment of any kind to anything the government has previously undertaken," he said. "I am talking about specific commitments on the part of this government for action."

"What I had in mind was that we cannot accept the principle of collective security in relation to the Atlantic area and then deny its validity in respect of some other part of the world. But as I see it, that of course is not remotely the same thing as saying that, having accepted specific commitments in NATO, we should accept similar commitments ourselves in 'respect of other countries of the world.'"

Earlier, Mr. Pearson said "while it is true that if peace is threatened by Communist aggression anywhere, it is threatened everywhere, it is also true that Canada cannot be expected to accept special regional defense commitments in every part of the world where collective arrangements may be advisable."

There is still hope, Mr. Pearson said, that solutions will be reached of the problems in Korea and Indo-China. It would be a mistake to break off the Geneva negotiations as long as there was even a remote possibility of agreement. If the conference failed, it should not be terminated but merely suspended with the hope it might be reconvened after several months. Renewal of the Korean war would be much less likely after Geneva.

Mr. Pearson's report on Geneva and his criticism of the Communists for "slandering allegations" and "abusive propaganda" was heard by packed galleries, including Russian diplomats.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada should give notice that it will

Between Two Stools

THE LATEST DISAGREEMENT between France and the United States on acceptable truce terms in Indo-China reflects the two cardinal facts with which the Geneva conference is struggling.

The first, of course, is the organic weakness of France, of a great people who, mastering the arts of private life, have been unable since their Revolution, to master the arts of democratic government. The liars of Indo-China are only the latest and most alarming symptoms of this political disease which now is moving towards a crisis.

"If," as The New York Times reports from Paris, "the Government is able to make decisions, there remains a little hope that the present form of government can maintain the world position of France. If there is a Cabinet crisis it appears that France must readjust to a diminished situation on the international scene. This could be marked by abandonment of various parts of what was once the far-flung empire of France."

There is no sign, however, of any decision in the present French Government. It lives by a majority of two votes in the Assembly and certainly would have fallen in the last test of strength but for the necessity of maintaining French representation at Geneva.

The plain fact is that the resources of France are over-stretched, from Europe to North Africa to Asia, and somehow the load must be relieved. That is the meaning of the present French attempt to liquidate the Indo-China war, if necessary on terms unacceptable to the United States.

The second fact thus revealed is the inability of the United States to make up its mind about Asia and France's position there. The New Yorker, a journal of humor often laced with penetrating wisdom, sums up the American dilemma accurately by saying that the United States has lately fallen between two stools—it is unwilling to fight in Indo-China but it is also unwilling to negotiate.

When France appealed for military aid there its plea was considered in the agonizing conferences of the White House and finally rejected. Probably such aid would have come too late in any case to prevent the ensuing military disaster. But when France admits its inability to win the war alone and M. Bidault proposes a compromise with the Communists, the United States protests, fearing the loss of Southeast Asia.

Both Governments, in Paris and in Washington, are hamstrung by their political circumstances. M. Bidault must somehow satisfy a quarrelsome parliament which may eject him and his Government at any moment and a people who cannot support their present military load. Mr. Eisenhower must satisfy a Congress which refuses to intervene in Indo-China and yet, in the minds of Republican leaders like Senator Knowland, regards any negotiation with the Communists as an "Asiatic Munich." Hence the disagreements between Washington and Paris, the strains on the free world's alliance, the diplomatic victories of Mr. Molotov.

But this situation will clarify, not long hence, one way or the other. France obviously intends to cut its losses and bring its costs into balance with its resources. If it cannot secure assistance from the United States it will make its own terms in Indo-China. And sooner or later the United States must decide on what line it is ready to fight or negotiate. After all the confusion of the last few weeks, that line may emerge at Geneva, doubtless not exactly where either side desires but where, as in Korea, it can be maintained.

Dr. Alice Ravenhill

THE DEATH OF DR. ALICE Ravenhill brought to a close a gentle life devoted to the welfare of others. Throughout most of her 95 years she had worked in support of causes dear to her—improvement of living conditions among workers in England; education in home economics and public health; promotion of women's institute work in British Columbia; and, in the closing years of her life, a whole-hearted interest in the welfare and culture of the Indians of this province.

In all these widespread pursuits her nature and her services won her friends and admirers. Although her methods were unobtrusive, recognition of her work had traveled far. When Prime Minister St. Laurent visited Victoria in 1949, he found time in a crowded schedule to visit Dr. Ravenhill and chat with her about the causes she championed.

Many a home that knew the benefits of her work will echo the simple but very sincere tribute offered by Dr. Norman Mackenzie, president of UBC: "She was a great and good woman." Her long and active life brought honor to her and to the city of her adoption.

Courthouse and a Guided Missile

CIVIL DEFENSE OFFICIALS have announced that Victoria's court-house will be hit by a guided missile June 14—"theoretically."

The mock attack will be made in the course of a routine drill for CD squads.

The announcement recalls some remarks of Mr. George Gregory in the Legislature last session. Mr. Gregory told fellow members of plans his father, the late Judge Gregory, had studied for a new court house proposed while George was still a small boy. Before that time and during almost every provincial election campaign since, a new court house has been dangled as attractive vote bait before the electors.

The old court house still stands. To its general aura of obsolescence has been suddenly added, in the last few days, a more violent, more definite odor of decay rising from an elevator shaft that surely was resurrected from the tombs of Egypt.

Provided the June 14 exercise can be carried out with proper evacuation of people, and provided no life is placed in danger, does the guided missile have to be "theoretical"?

CHURCHILL AND AUTHENTICITY

I hope you will not think me hyper-critical but as "Churchill: A Man and an Era" is appearing in the Times, its accuracy would be accepted by most of your readers and undoubtedly might lead to desperate arguments.

I would hate to think of you being rung up at all hours of the day or night by some Churchillian ideologue and informed that his father, Lord Randolph, was no more the seventh Duke of Marlborough (as Messrs. Ward Cannel and Ralph Lane state in your issue of May 25) than he was Prime Minister. Lord Randolph, resigned as chancellor of the exchequer, from Lord Salisbury's cabinet in 1887 ("I forgot Goschen") was his valedictory and died in 1895, when Winston was 20 and in the 7th Hussars (I think).

In the second picture Winston is shown as a boy in sailor clothes and Asquith, Chamberlain, Balfour are "callers" at Blenheim. Probably this reference is to Joseph Chamberlain, father of Austen and Neville, who when Winston was at that age was the "notorious radical" mayor of Birmingham; Asquith was practically unknown until he made his name as a lawyer in the Parnell case, acting as junior to Sir Charles Russell; and I can't imagine the butler at Blenheim admitting them (Chamberlain or Asquith). As for Balfour, he had just been made Secretary for Ireland in Salisbury's last cabinet but one, and was destined to lose his (Oldham) seat to Winston over "Free Trade" very many years later. He, Balfour, led the Unionist party after Salisbury resigned. Churchill became a Liberal over Home Rule and Free Trade!

I am relying only on my memory. Winston first came to public notice for his "stories" from Cuba in the Morning Post, Spanish-American Pre-War 1897 and thence to Khartoum . . . Omdurman (this first book, brilliant) . . . and then South Africa.

"OLD VICTORIAN."

'DOCILE AND COW-LIKE'

Just how gullible are we Victorians? Like every community, big and little, clever crooks find a happy hunting ground here for their devious wiles and stratagems. Take this current nationwide scheme of fluoridation for example.

To prevent decay in children's teeth (a highly debatable claim) it is proposed to foul our water system and subject every man, woman and child to its pollution. Against this many scientific reasons have been adduced by the biochemist why it would be dangerous to the public health to do this, because fluorine being one of the most potent poisons known, is injurious to the brain and nerve cells, the reproductive organs, the thyroid gland and liver, besides creating a high incidence of bone fractures.

Dr. Roy Lee, DDS, Director of The Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research, Milwaukee, an authority on biochemistry, is one of many dental surgeons who is most emphatic in condemning the fluoridation of a public water supply.

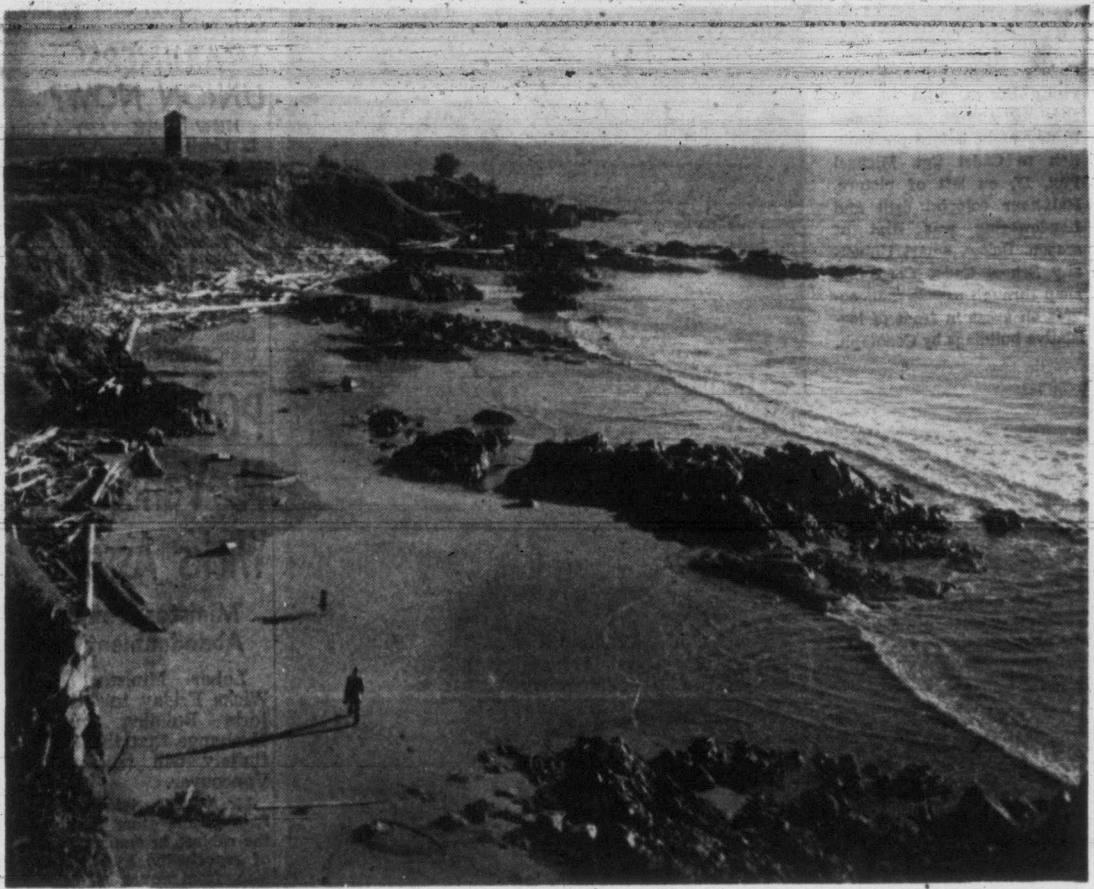

Moreover, the scheme savours suspiciously of the big-time racketeer, and as may be expected—the diabolical genius of communism is plainly revealed. Rena M. Vale, former Communist Party member, now active in aiding the U.S. Government investigating subversive activities, states:

"Fluoridation of drinking water is known in communist circles as a vehicle of Red warfare to be used for outright poisoning of the population and for reducing mentality and will of the population so it will not resist communist domination. This is planned for America. The method to be employed to put fluoridation over on the people is to beat the drums for the fraudulent reason of 'protection of children's teeth,' and to see to it that the public does not learn that fluorides affect the brain and nerve cells to such an extent that initiative is reduced and the personality becomes docile and cow-like."

Such truthful testimonies as these can be multiplied, and since science has turned thumbs down on fluoridation let us not be so gullible as to give it countenance.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Voice of the Poodle

IN the quarrel about a liquor license for the Poodle Dog Cafe—a problem of statesmanship apparently quite as complicated as the Geneva conference—no one apparently has thought of consulting the Poodle Dog himself.

Hutchison

stands before the cafe, it is engraved on menus and other documents, it is imprinted indelibly on the memory of all Early Victorians like this writer but, strangely enough, until today the opinions of the Poodle Dog have never been asked by the Government, the Liquor Board or the newspapers.

AS the Poodle Dog is an old friend of mine (we met first on a certain bleak New Year's dawn more than fifty years ago) I repaired this morning to the luxurious kennel where he is spending the twilight of a famous life. He is rather old now and somewhat feeble, he can no longer carry a tray and has lost all interest in alcoholic liquors, but his mind is sharp, he still speaks in his fascinating French accent and he keeps abreast of affairs.

"Zut!" he exclaimed, lapsing instinctively into French, "vous savez that the public has got the story all wrong. Que Diab!"

THERE is, you understand, mon vieux, no inconsistency in the policies of the Liquor Board. Mais non, it is the consistency most extraordinaire. The Liquor Board, she is not trying to prevent the sale of liquor. Au contraire, she wants to sell all the liquor she can, that is her business, vous comprenez. She only wants to make sure that no one enjoys it, that is all.

ALORS, in strict logic, the Liquor Board never objected when the signs showed me with a tray of glasses so long as the cafe could sell no liquor. When the town is dry of course it is quite all right, it is de rigueur and come il faut, to make it look wet on the signs. It is only when the town is wet that it must be made to look dry.

THE cafe owner, he may legally pretend to sell the liquor when he has none to sell. But he must pretend not to do so. Parbleu, that is logic in the Anglo-Saxon mind. As a Frenchman I do not understand it but it should make no trouble for you Anglo-Saxons, who are so much more subtle.

Your English historian, Macaulay," said the Poodle Dog, "once makes the exact comment on this affair. Yes, he says, the Puritans of England did not object to bear-baiting because it hurt the bear but because it amused the spectators. Exactly so. And the British Columbia Government does not object to the sale of the liquor because it is evil but because it may make the customer feel good.

IN any case, it makes the Government feel good. Mon Dieu, imagine if you can how the Government would feel if the public refused to drink! Imagine what would happen if the public took the Government's campaign for temperance seriously for a moment! The public might be sober, but the Government would be bankrupt, which is even worse.

So the Government must pretend to discourage the sale of liquor, it must prevent the attractive signs on the cafes and pubs but it trusts the good sense of the public to disregard its warnings and fill the treasury with liquor profits. C'est vrai, it is the iron logic of the Anglo-Saxon.

LET the public enjoy itself so long as the Government never hears about it. Let the public drink so long as the fact is not admitted on the sign-board. And let the Government grow rich on the avails of liquor revenue so long as it can say that it is doing everything possible to crush that hideous traffic, which it must encourage in every possible fashion, except in public, to stay in business.

"That is all very clear and well understood by everybody. But attendez-moi, mon ami, one thing you do not understand and it touches my honor. I am what you call libel by the Liquor Board and I would sue them but I am too old to care. The Liquor Board is horridly because the sign shows me with glasses on a tray, which is very shocking to the Anglo-Saxon mind, for wine, of course, must be kept inside, out of sight, best of all inside the Anglo-Saxon stomach."

BUT the fact I have never told before and give it to you now in strict confidence—is that I never drank a glass of wine after leaving my country of Provence sixty-five years ago. I have been since then a teetotaler. So when I opened the Poodle Dog Cafe and hired an artist to paint my portrait the glasses on the tray are filled—will you believe it—with ginger ale.

IT is to laugh! For half a century the joke is on the public and the customers. They look at my picture and their mouths water at the sight of the bubbling champagne but I give you my word it is pop only, bottled here in Victoria. The bubbles do not come out of the grapes of France but from a soda water factory in Esquimalt.

BUT do not tell the Liquor Board. It must have its fun. It must pursue the evil of liquor even if it is pursuing two glasses of ginger ale and a teetotal Poodle. It must always attack the drink trade, to satisfy the dry voters, so long as it does all the business itself and increases its turn-over every year.

And now adieu, mon vieux. I do not think we shall meet again for, to tell the truth, I am growing rather tired of this Anglo-Saxon world. It is too complicated for a simple old teetotaler from France."

A Critical Point in the Balance of Power

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, from Washington.

THE gravity of the present turning point in world affairs can be simply measured. Apologetic yet quite serious talk about a "preventive showdown" with the Soviet bloc is beginning to be heard in high quarters. Thus far, those who venture to use the ugly word, "preventive," are only a small minority. Furthermore, they do not positively advocate a preventive policy with its grim, inherent risk of major war. They just say that this policy can no longer be ruled out.

Joseph

The fact remains that the word that was tabu and the idea that was tabu are not quite tabu now. This change is the clearest symptom of the deep uneasiness that reigns among those who know the true posture of affairs. There are two interacting causes of this uneasiness.

BEHIND THE DECISION

The first cause, obviously, is Indo-China. What is really at stake in Indo-China, if you get right down to rock-bottom, is the strategic balance between the free world and the Soviet empire. This strategic balance has been precariously maintained for eight years. Maintaining the balance was the real purpose of the decision to go into the Korean war.

But what was saved in Korea is now in even greater danger in Indo-China. If Indo-China is allowed to fall, the breakdown in the strategic balance will be total and disastrous.

The second cause of the present uneasiness, which the Administration has sedulously concealed, is also a basic change in the relative situations of the Soviet and Western halves of the world. It is the new trend of the weapons balance, described in three recent reports in this space.

Hitherto, the dominant feature of the weapons balance has been the supremacy of American air-atomic striking power. The Soviet Union might be stronger in every other arm of war. But the really decisive arm was held by the United States. So long as that was the situation, there was a kind of crude balance of weapons as between the contestants in the world struggle.

But the Soviets have now upset all the Pentagon's calculations by bringing out long range jet-bombers two years earlier than was estimated. This means that within eighteen months to two years, the Kremlin will have decisive air-atomic striking power of its own, plus the freedom our government does not have, to use that power at will and by surprise.

Simultaneously, the hydrogen bomb has changed all the estimates of long range guided missile developments. The Soviets, who are ahead in this field, may well come out with an intercontinental missile with hydrogen warhead before this ultimate weapon can be produced in America.

The weapons balance must therefore be regarded as turning against us, at just the same moment when the strategic balance is also turning against us. Each tendency makes the other immeasurably more dangerous and alarming.

POKER GAME

This is because the weapons balance and the strategic balance interact in a way that has been wittily and astutely described by George F. Kennan, who still possesses one of the most penetrating minds in America, even if the Administration does not choose to use it.

Kennan uses the simile of a poker game in the wild and woolly days of the west. In such a game, after all, there were two quite different elements. There were the cards on the table. And there were the six-shooters on the hips of the players.

If the distribution of aces and kings did not seem abnormal, the cards decided the outcome of the game. But if the cards went too wrong, the six-shooters came out. And the six-shooters decided the outcome.

In Kennan's simile, of course, the cards stand for the strategic balance and the six-shooters for the weapons balance. If a reasonable strategic balance can be maintained, in other words, there will be much less reason to worry about the weapons balance. But if the strategic balance is going to collapse, as it is in danger of doing, the adverse trend in the weapons balance acquires really desperate meaning.

BETWEEN TWO HALVES

Added together, the strategic balance and the weapons balance crudely constitute the world power balance between the Soviet and free halves of the world. History teaches and the rule has no known exception—that a decisively unfavorable turn of the total power balance always leaves only two choices open to the nation or alliance on the losing end. Those choices are surrender or a war of despair.

Since the Administration has steadfastly refused to take the country into its confidence, this may sound the very stuff of nightmare.

But facts do not cease to be hard facts because they are not publicly admitted. False optimism is no cure for vast upsets in the world balance of power. Which in turn explains why the formerly unmentionable is being mentioned and the formerly unthinkable is being thought about by some of those in the small group to whom the hard facts are truthfully communicated.

The Age-Old Way of an Eagle in the Air

By HUBERT EVANS, Roberts Creek, B.C.

SOME of King Solomon's observations may date, but not the one in which he admits that the way of an eagle in the air is too wonderful for him. Only why restrict it to eagles? All bird flight is wonderful.

Take hummingbirds. On the heels of the recent cold spell, our cherry tree in the side yard—the old style "pie cherry"—one burst into blossom with the delightful suddenness of popping corn, and d bumblebees, our neighbor's honey bees and several assiduous hummingbirds are working on it.

The hummingbirds elevate and lower themselves with an airy, mechanical exactitude no helicopter can begin to match. Their sprightly precision, and the fitness of their flight to the task in hand, makes an observant person marvel. No lost motion, and they gauge distances between blossoms to a fraction of an inch.

Another flight to marvel at is that of gulls. When a south-easter is blowing they do not buck into it on plodding wings, like crows. Instead, they ride its updraughts and eddies and sail up wind with an ease any glider enthusiast would admire, an ease born of eons of instinctive knowing.

On wild winter days, when even the Ceebees and Beavers out of Sea Island airport are grounded, the gulls sail grandly by.

I have stood and watched them so often in such weather that frequently

I am able to predict within yards the trail they will follow. They appear from the west on the windward side of the ridge and higher than it.

Tops of the skyline trees are bowing before the south-easter, yet the gulls cruise up wind toward me. They hover, testing with their wings air velocities and sets which no earth-bound creature can judge of, then they glide down some long air slope our patch of woods has tilted in their favor. There they do a side-slip seaward and pass from sight, coasting east above the shoreline trees.

A west wind sets up opposite currents but the effortless trail is there and the gulls seek it out and follow it. Migrating geese appear not to have this local aerial knowledge or if they have they do not use it. Their leaders, like deep-sea shipmasters who want plenty of leeway, set a course high up and hold to it.

One morning this spring I noticed a flock of Canada geese beating into a stiff westerly and making heavy weather of it. A faint, distressed clamor came down to me, stragglers showed against the blue and soon the whole flock broke formation. Unable to make further headway, they went kiting out over the Strait. But their grand old leader rallied them, they reformed and continued shouldering into the wind.

If a person tried he might work out an interesting theory on the resemblance between a bird's character and the way it flies.

The sagacious, straight-flying goose; the gull as adaptable in its flight as in its feeding; efficient little hummingbirds who will stand no nonsense from larger birds; the wave-like flight of a kingfisher over the water where it gets its living; airy swallows taking their food on the wing; and the secretive wren whose quickness can deceive the eye; the brief, crescendo flight of warblers and crows at songbird nesting time going about their shy business.

And, of course, the eagles. Two summers ago, camped out at the head of a valley, I was taking my noon nap when I noticed two eagles a good thousand feet above me. They looked black against a mass of cumulus cloud and through the glasses I made one to be adult, the other still too young to have its white head and tail.

After spiraling for awhile the adult leveled off. The juvenile kept on climbing then launched a steep, breath-taking dive at the other. As it shot past, the adult followed it down.

They pulled out of their dives abreast and returned to the elevation at which I first sighted them. Then the adult dropped and the performance was repeated.

After five or six of these mock passes, the adult played attacker, and it was something to see those two streaking and banking and cutting vast, interwoven figures against the back-drop of snowy cloud. You felt that the whole sky was theirs by right, and the wide valley, the ranges on either side and all which lay beyond.

Next they took turns, diving and soaring in rhythmic sweeps until they were lost to sight against the dark green of mountain.

The way of an eagle in the air, and the same, no doubt, in Solomon's time as mine.

SEVEN MEN OF SPANDAU, by Jack Fishman, Clark Irwin & Co., Toronto.

As "The Seven Men of Spandau," by Jack Fishman, appears on the bookstands this month comes the news that the Four Powers have agreed to reopen discussions on the fate of the Nazi war

This opens up two very interesting questions. If these men are released, will they be a force for good or evil? And does their release imply an adverse comment on their commitment?

NEW WORLD THREAT

The author feels that when their prison terms are up they intend to renew the forces of Nazism, to form new parties, and to threaten the world with new powers in Germany. The seven men are: Hess, Raeder, Funk, Doenitz, von Schirach, von Neurath and Speer.

Admiral Raeder and Baron von Neurath are old and infirm. Funk is undoubtedly a sick man.

But Admiral Doenitz is still vigorous, and capable of playing a leading role in affairs of state. He is known to be in contact not only with the Naumann group of avowed Nazis, but with leading members of the Adenauer administration, some of whom intend that after his release he shall be given a high position in the newly constituted Wehrmacht.

In a lead article in a recent issue, "The New Statesman and Nation" reluctantly states that "It is now realized that London and Washington can only win the confidence of Western Germany if Britain and America cease to treat the leaders of the Wehrmacht as war criminals."

To win the confidence of those who now rule in Bonn, it is not sufficient merely to sign a treaty which ends the Occupation. The concept of German war crimes must be expunged from the historical records.

"The Seven Men of Spandau" would seem to be heralding a problem which the world is just beginning to face.

Biography Pays Honor to Great Educationist

HENRY MARSHALL TORY by E.A. Corbett, Ryerson Press, Toronto, 241 pages, $5.

This biography of Dr. H. M. Tory is based upon the personal memories and records kept by the famous educationist himself and his many friends and admirers.

Dr. Tory was a Canadian of whom all Canadians should feel proud. He did more to make the high standards of university education what they are today than any other man; he gave to it his whole life.

After McGill, which he helped to establish, he did the same with that of Alberta, the Khaki College, the National Research Council and Carleton College. He was affiliated with the League of Nations Society and The Institute for Intellectual Co-operation.

A modest man by nature, his purpose was strong and his far-reaching ideas have left an indelible impression on education in Canada.—G.A.

JANET LEIGH SIGNED

Columbia Pictures has signed Janet Leigh to a contract calling for her services in one picture per year for five years.

Miss Leigh will report to the studio in August for the musical version of "My Sister Eileen" as her first stellar assignment, teaming with Judy Holliday, previously announced for the role of the elder sister, Ruth.

Start Shakespeare Rehearsals

Frances Hyland, Saskatchewan-born actress who returned recently from a successful career on the London stage, arrives at Stratford, Ont., to begin rehearsals for this summer's Shakespearean festival. She talks with Cecil Clarke of London, artistic adviser to the festival, who will direct "Measure for Measure," in which Miss Hyland plays opposite James Mason, British stage and film star. Other plays to be presented are "Taming of the Shrew" and "Oedipus Rex." (CP photo.)

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Every time a group of Canadian literary types get together and the talk swings, as it often does, to Ernest Hemingway, somebody is going to bring up the undoubted fact that once he was a Toronto newspaperman. I have never quite understood just what the psychological mechanics of proximity to the great signify, but somehow it seems to be assumed that the national writing stature is extended by having people like old man Hem in our past.

Well now, it is a real fine thing that he was here once and undoubtedly the more honest-to-gosh creative minds we have floating around, the better the climate for all the other artists. But this case of Hemingway is not exactly clear cut.

For want of a better method let's analyze it mathematically.

Hemingway in Toronto

Charles Fenton has just written a book—and a very good one—called THE APPRENTICESHIP OF ERNEST HEMINGWAY. The major thesis of this study is that "Hemingway encountered most of the significant experiences of his person and professional life before he was twenty-five years old."

With this I have no quarrel, even without the powerful argument in Mr. Fenton's book.

Now let us contemplate a few more figures. Properly speaking, Hemingway began his professional life as a writer at the age of eighteen. Take eighteen from twenty-five and you get seven. Seven key years, then, in his development as a creative writer which were of first importance.

To this now add the fact that four of those seven years, with intermittent interruptions, were spent in Toronto, where Hemingway was working for the Toronto Star.

According to the figures, as the actuaries say, it would seem that if Charles Fenton's premise is true, a most significant influence on Ernest Hemingway as a writer was his four years in Canada.

But hold! The mathematical way of literary criticism—which is invoked more often than most of us realize—is indeed fraught with danger. There is, for example, the testimony of the writer himself. Papa Hemingway split no hairs as far as his opinion of his years in Toronto goes. "It took five years off my life," he says, and that, coming from a gent who has made something of a career of putting his life in jeopardy, is really something.

If you accept the man's own word, then, my mathematical friends, the picture is not so rosy. Instead of Ernest Hemingway being indebted to this country for four of the most important years of his writing evolution, Canada owes him five.

I may be old-fashioned in my reckoning, for me five, take away four, leaves one. At the very kindest estimate, this land owes Hemingway a whole year of good life—good life for a writer, that is.

I wonder what would happen if he turned up one of these days to collect that year? (Incidentally, he has never set foot in Toronto since the day he left.)

Possibly we could muster a few wild animals and a chance for a cracked skull or at least a good plane wreck for him, but I think there would be a terrible outcry from the local writers.

After all, I know a lot of them who think that Canada owes them a whole lifetime.

'You Can't Eat a Medal'

On the medals and awards circuit last week saw three more Canadians earn kudos for various kinds of writing. Joan Walker took the Leacock Medal for humor for her light account of a British war bride in Canada's true North, strong and free—PARDON MY PARKA. Grace MacInnis took the University of British Columbia's Medal for popular biography for her account of her father, J. S. Woodsworth—A MAN TO REMEMBER. In the Province of Quebec, Father Emile Gervais' MONSIEUR DE LAVAL has been chosen as the best book of the year written in the French language by a Canadian for children. For this he will receive a bronze medal from Canadian Library Association.

All this is fine, but as I have said many a time and gift before, you can't eat a medal.

Ralph Allen's new novel, THE CHARTERED LIBERTINE, seems to be arriving in bits and pieces. Yesterday I received half the dust jacket through the mail. Today I got an unbound bundle of pages and I think that is the book. No doubt the hard covers will be coming along within the next few weeks. In the meantime, I'm glad to get a look at the story. Been waiting for it a long time, it seems.

Charlemagne's Magic Covers 12 Centuries

Christian Emperor In Lifelike Prose

CHARLEMAGNE, THE LEGEND AND THE MAN by Harold Lamb. Doubleday Publishers, Toronto, 320 pages.

No one who has read and enjoyed "Genghis Khan" or "Theodora, the Empress" or in fact any book by Harold Lamb, can fail to be thrilled by a new one.

Of his writings he says: "I spend months in going through the scenes of a book in imagination, until all the details are clear, then I put it down in words."

This is not as easy as Lamb makes it sound, but he seems to have the power of projecting himself mentally into the past. "Charlemagne" starts in the year 753—a time about which most people will readily admit they know practically nothing. After painstaking research the author has presented such a lucid picture of the age that readers will feel they are living in it with the characters of the book.

Meeting Charlemagne first at the age of 11 readers follow his career as husband, father, leader and diplomat, carrying conquests into the unknown and earning the title of Charles the Great.

In spite of hazardous expeditions and constant border wars he was intensely interested in Christianity.

He felt the whole Christian world was his empire and towards the end of his life became known as the Emperor of Christianity.—G.A.

Novel of Earlier Days Of Canada

TURN EAST, TURN WEST by Luella Creighton, McClelland & Stewart Co., Toronto, 373 pages, $3.75.

"Turn East, Turn West" is another novel by Luella Creighton of earlier days of Canada; days when a girl "put up" her hair as soon as she left school; when it was not quite the thing to walk down the street hatless, or to talk to strangers.

In such an atmosphere, Laura Paparin was born and brought up. Her grandfather had been a wealthy man. Mrs. Paparin did not forget that in marrying an auctioneer she had lowered her social standing and insisted that her volatile, fun-loving daughter did not follow the somewhat Bohemian ways of her father.

When the small family came west to live in the old homestead, Laura was frowned upon by the local people.

The problems this causes, the conflicts and emotions that are stirred in a young girl developing from adolescence to maturity, make another story that should be as successful as the author's other popular novel, "High Buggy Wheels."—G.A.

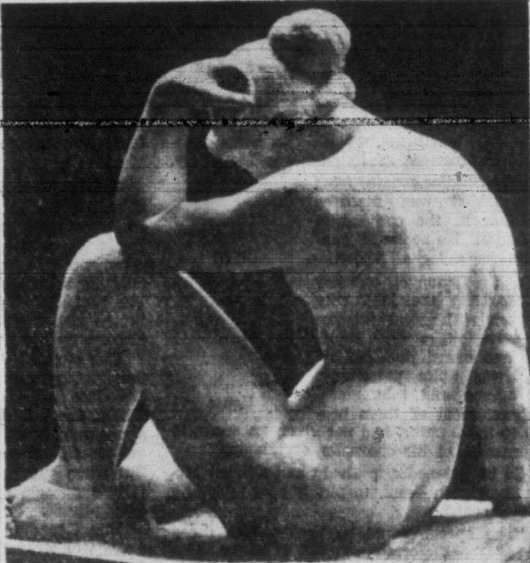

BUYS DOCK STORY

Sam Katzman has purchased an original story, "Riot on Pier Six," by Orville Hampton, dealing with cargo thefts on the New York and San Francisco waterfronts, which are said to average more than $40,000,000 a year.

Hampton will also write the screenplay for the picture which is slated to go before the cameras in the late fall.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

Two weeks ago, in discussing Jan Zach's abstract trophy sculpture, this column went on record as believing that the style of sculpture represented by the traditional trophy has been on the decline for at least 200 years.

More than one reader has raised an eyebrow at this and asked whether there has really been no worthwhile realistic sculpture done during these centuries. It seems to me that the answer is that a trend may dominate a certain period but it certainly need not include every individual artist in that period.

Compared with the great series of Renaissance sculptors which culminated in Michaelangelo, the Berninis, Houdons and Canovas who followed in their wake are very small beer indeed. And these men are virtual giants when placed against the host of minor talents who were their contemporaries and who are now all but forgotten.

After Canova in the early nineteenth century there appears the solitary mountain peak represented by Rodin who, however, inaugurates that breaking up of representational honor, the non-conformist.

LOVICK'S NEWS AGENCY

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

Probably the greatest publicity the hobby has had so far was the recent special issue of Life magazine which featured rare stamps of the world. The fact that this top-ranking publication would devote its cover and no less than eight of its precious pages to this subject is a clear proof of the appeal that philately has for the general public as well as for the collector.

The Colonial Office in London has released the figures showing sales of the Coronation stamps for most of the colonies.

The average number sold including sales made direct to dealers from the crown agents runs about 1,000,000 apiece for the smaller colonies. Hong Kong tops the list, as might be expected, for in spite of its small size its population is supposed to be actually larger than that of New Zealand! Sales were 16,000,000, with Gold Coast using about one third as many.

Pitcairn Island is naturally near the bottom, though its total of 272,000, of which 9,400 were sold on the island, was not bad for a population of around 125. Grenada, in the B.W.I., was also low. The Falkland-Island Dependencies and Tristan da Cunha have yet to be heard from, but will probably have the smallest sales. If it weren't for stamp collectors they most likely wouldn't sell any!

Canada is to cut out the use of postage due stamps altogether. Their use was superfluous, as the public, even when paying the tax on an underpaid letter, always paid in cash, never in postage due stamps. They were, it is true, stuck on the letter by the postman, but he had to reimburse himself from the addressee in cash.

GRÜBER CONDUCTS

CBC Guest Conducting Compliment to Victoria

I hope you have missed me during my two-week delinquency from this space. I think I can explain satisfactorily. I was busy. Very busy. I have driven thousands and thousands of miles. I had to re-learn no less a work than the Fifth Symphony by Shostakovich, after letting the score gather dust these past five years.

I found that it is often easier to establish a friendship and familiarity with a complete stranger than re-establish these after they had at one time existed but have fallen into estrangement through neglect and lack of cultivation. (I speak of the score of the Shostakovich Symphony.)

Which brings me to an experience of much interest which I had last week. I had the privilege (I mean just that) of guest-conducting the CBC Symphony Orchestra in Toronto.

This is an orchestra not to be compared with any other in Canada, except perhaps the Toronto Symphony, and then only because there is all but a 100 per cent duplication of personnel. This orchestra is maintained by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for purposes of broadcast concert only; no public is admitted to the weekly Monday evening broadcasts by the CBC Symphony.

Two Rehearsals for Broadcast

Geoffrey Waddington is the orchestra's titular musical director, he being the Director of Music for the CBC. The quality of the orchestra is such that generally only two rehearsals are allowed per broadcast, even if the work to be performed is of a difficulty of a Shostakovich symphony.

The concertmaster is none other than Albert Pratz, who has just returned from New York after spending eight years in the first violin section of Toscanini's NBC Symphony Orchestra (now disbanded, after the maestro announced his retirement a few weeks ago.)

To continue in parentheses, and speaking of Toscanini, Mr. Pratz informs me that Toscanini's retirement applies to the NBC Orchestra only. It seems the 87-year-old conductor is already in Italy and rehearsing the orchestra of La Scala in Milan for performances there.

Now to get back to the CBC Symphony.

It is a fact, stated impersonally and objectively, as you will presently see, that Mr. Waddington chooses with some care his guest-conductors, being unwilling, and most rightly so, to let anybody play around and tamper with so delicate and sensitive an instrument as he has assembled in CBC Symphony.

Waddington Chooses by Ear

It may be a contradiction, now, to say that Mr. Waddington was not heretofore acquainted personally with me professionally. We have had occasion to meet privately; but he had not seen me conduct.

You may well ask, if he is as careful as I said he was, and as I know him to be, when it comes to selecting guest-conductors for the CBC Symphony Orchestra, on what basis he selected my name? The answer is, that he heard, last June, the half-hour broadcast of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. By his own request, he was sent additional tape-recordings of our orchestra taken from this past season's concerts. Mr. Waddington feels about conductors, if I may be forgiven the paraphrase, "by their orchestras ye shall know them."

The inference I now draw is inescapable. My engagement as guest-conductor to the great CBC Symphony Orchestra is not so much a personal distinction as it is a most honorable reflection on my musicians in Victoria.

It is wholly to them that I owe this honor; and through this public medium I thank them. And when I say, now

Stock Theatre Provides Actors Training Ground on Way to Top

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Withdrawal of Totem Theatre from Victoria for this season has created a fairly widespread impression that there is to be no further professional theatre activity in Victoria for the foreseeable future.

Wiseacres will point to past failures of other companies and say with some justification that they always said nothing like that would go in Victoria. We will hear again that professional theatre is doomed for good and all now that the age of television has been achieved.

NEWEST ENEMY

Unfortunately the element of truth in these statements is undeniable. Professional live stage shows, which took a bad body-blow from the rising movie industry nearly half a century ago, are faced with an even more deadly opponent in this newest medium of entertainment.

Whether the coup-de-grace will be administered this time is the big question. If this is it, as some people think, then professional theatre is doomed to become a thing almost extinct—an isolated species existing only in some dedicated and rarified atmosphere.

So let's face it. Let us admit that the majority of that fairly small percentage of entertainment seekers who attend live stage shows, will be almost as happy at a good movie or sitting before a TV screen watching top echelons of British and American talent perform.

All of which means that Totem theatre, like other companies across Canada, has found it impossible to attract the operative minimum of audiences week after week, and after repeated crisis, has finally elected to try their luck again under more favorable circumstances in a larger community.

TOTEM MAY RETURN

But let no one think this is the end of Totem in Victoria. There is at least a possibility that the company will play in this city again next fall. They have found enough encouragement, both of a financial and moral kind, to make them desire to at least leave the door ajar.

The point is they have found here a faithful nucleus audience and by careful planning, a few changes in the mode of operation and a bit of campaigning by loyal adherents of the living theatre.

While entertainment is something people must always be left free to choose, to take or leave according to their tastes, and while we have tacitly admitted the strength of the opposition, there is an important

HYDROGEN BOMBS

The plane shown was undoubtedly a prototype, but the prototype is thought to have passed the flight-test stage. Thus the Tupolev-39 is probably ready to be ordered into full production.

Building this new four-engine jet would have to be regarded as a major and fairly chilling Soviet achievement, even if there were not more of the same. After all, although our own four-engine jet has been supposed to be in production for more than a year, the American Air Force actually has only two B-52s in service.

The real danger signal, however, was not the appearance of the Tupolev-39, which has already been described, but the discovery of the Tupolev-37, which has not been revealed until now.

The Tupolev-37 is also a jet engine strategic bomber, similar in size to our B-47. Its very large air intakes have caused some argument among the analysts. The point disputed is whether this is actually a two-engine jet, like the B-47; or whether it has two sets of two engines each, coupled together so that each set can be served by a single air intake. In any case, the comparison to be B-47 is thought to be crudely accurate.

Moreover, nine of these new aircraft have been observed flying in formation together. For this and other reasons, the Tupolev-37 is supposed to be in full production already. Pentagon analysts now give an official estimate that the current output is approximately 30 planes per month.

Our B-47 production rate is of course higher than this; and a good many groups in the Strategic Air Command have already exchanged the obsolescent B-50s and B-29s for the new twin-engine jet.

But with the Tupolev-37 coming off the line at the rate of 30 per month, the Soviet Strategic Air Army should have something like 720 of these bombers in service at the end of two years. But the end of two years, the Kremlin will also possess a sufficient stock of atomic and hydrogen bombs. With the new jets plus an adequate stock of weapons of total destruction, Soviet striking power will become truly decisive.

Another Foolish Miscalculation

That does not mean, of course, that all the Soviet Union's strategic air problems are now going to be magically solved. The Tupolev-37s, and perhaps the Tupolev-39s as well, will need refuelling to reach American targets; just as the B-47s will need refuelling to reach Soviet targets. Refuelling has not been practised by the Russian air men as long or as intensively as by our air men. And there are also questions to be answered about the efficiency of Soviet advanced air bases.

On the other hand, the unexpected appearance of these planes means that we have made another foolishly optimistic miscalculation. It is very much like the miscalculation that was shown up by the Soviet atomic tests in September, 1949. And in a sense, the results are almost as grave.

With the growth of the stocks of atomic and hydrogen bombs on both sides of the world contest, the power to deliver the weapons of total destruction becomes even more vital than the weapons themselves. There is no use blinking the fact that the Soviets delivery power will shortly be far greater than any of the American planners were prepared for.

The time-jump, which the Soviets have achieved is especially significant, because of the languid and loitering approach to the gigantic problem of American air defense. Two years have now passed since the Lincoln Project rendered its famous report, outlining an ineffective American air defense for this atomic age. Nearly a year has passed since the Bull Report, by the Committee that was supposed to lay down the Eisenhower administration's final policy in this matter.

More money is being spent on air defense—spending is probably at the rate of $3,000,000,000 a year by now—but the truly essential things have not been done and are not now being done. There is no promise yet of really adequate warning systems or really adequate interception systems for a really adequate command system.

Warning Systems Play Major Role

The state of the work on warning systems is illustrative of the state of the whole problem. The earliest possible warning is of course the key to effective air defense. For budgetary and other reasons, however, the administration decided last summer to start by trying to establish an intermediate warning line, the so-called McGill Line, crossing Canada at the 57th Parallel.

Pernickety negotiations for the establishment of this intermediate warning line have been carried on with the Canadians for many months. There have been difficulties about sending in American personnel to man the radar equipment, about whether the equipment should be made in America or Canada, and so on. The joint Canadian-American establishment of the McGill Line has been agreed upon in principle, but the McGill Line is not yet being built.

By the same token, "Project Corrode" was belatedly set up to test the very advanced special equipment advocated by the Lincoln scientists for a much more advanced warning line, somewhere about the 72nd Parallel. This project has now been brilliantly successful. But until very recently at least nothing had been said to the Canadians about extending the warning system to this advanced line. Furthermore, little has been done to provide adequate sea-borne warning systems on this continent's ocean flanks.

In the same fashion, the great value of early warning is that it gives you more than one opportunity to knock out the attacker. One fighter plane or rocket may have no more than a 15 per cent chance of making a kill. But if the attacker has to run the gauntlet of five interceptions—by fighters or rockets, his chance of being knocked down will be 75 per cent.

Time May Be Lacking To Do Job

Yet no serious effort is being made to fill in behind the McGill Line with a net of fighter and rocket bases. Once again, the question has not even been raised with the Canadians, unless this happened very recently. By the same token, a unified continental defense command is plainly needed. But this has neither been mentioned to the Canadians nor even agreed upon between our own competing services.

In view of all these facts, the question now has to be asked whether the air defense opportunity has not been altogether missed. Two years ago, an all-out effort might have given us an all defense that would have saved two-thirds or three-quarters of our cities from destruction. With the new Soviet jet bombers already in the air, time may now be lacking to do this vital job.

Add that another feature of the Moscow air show was the exhibition of an important new night fighter. Add further that the Soviets have been going all-out to improve their air defense, since the end of the Second World War. It can then be seen why the appearance of the Soviet bomber has caused very deep concern.

Alta. Liberals Reported Ready To Oust Leader

EDMONTON (CP)—The Journal said in a newspaper story Thursday that J. Harper Prowse may be ousted as provincial Liberal party leader with Mayor William Hawrolak of Edmonton his likely successor.

The Journal adds: "While silence is being maintained in official quarters, it is reported that dissatisfaction with Mr. Prowse's leadership has grown since the last provincial general election in August, 1952. In that contest, the Liberals merely increased their house membership from three to four. They comprise the largest opposition group with Mr. Prowse acting as opposition leader."

New Cadet Corps Chooses 12 To Go to Summer Camp

Twelve members of the new No. 2483 Army Cadet Corps have been chosen to attend a summer camp at Vernon from July 5 to August 20.

Lieut. Cy Burley of the corps reports the hope is that still more will be named to attend the camp, which is popular with the "small fry" of the khaki service.

Capt. Dudley Stephens, commander of the cadet corps of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), says he has submitted his list for the camp, but has not received word on how many of them will be allowed to attend. The army has the last word of how many will be handled at the camp.

Annual inspection of the Scottish Cadets will take place in Bay Street Armoury at 3 p.m., June 10. They will be inspected by Brig. D. M. Clark, commander of the 15th Canadian Reserve Infantry Brigade. Parents and friends of this smart unit in colorful dress are invited to attend the show. The corps now numbers 76. Lieut. Angus Davie is the other officer of the unit. Gary Frankham is the RSM.

At the invitation of "Shorty" Clette, former CSM of the Scottish here and now liquor vendor at Clinton, B.C. Capt. Stephens and Lieut. Davie took 22 cadets including a piper and a drummer, to the Cariboo town to join in its May parade. The officers took part in the judging. The journey was made in cars of the officers and Cadet CSM Bob Ellis and CQMS Frank Warren.

The island RCAF recruiting headquarters in Victoria reports the following were enlisted in the force in the last 12 days:

Officials Inspect New Warehouse

Roof Products Limited; A. R. Williams, managing director of Stocker's Transfer Co. Ltd.; J. M. Whitwell, president, Hickman Tye Hardware Company, Ltd.; A. V. Lea, office manager and director, Hickman Tye; W. H. Tucker, Duncan representative, Hickman Tye and T. R. Pauls, Nanaimo representative, Hickman Tye. Operating the fork lift is A. Harrup, Pandora warehouse superintendent.

The new wholesale warehouse, recently opened by Hickman Tye Hardware on Pandora Avenue, marks a new era of progress and development for a pioneer firm. Devoted to the distribution of the famous "Ace-Tex" line, roofing and allied products, manufactured by the Canada Roof Products Ltd., Vancouver, this new warehouse combines a adequate storage space with convenience and speedy service for the customer. Seven thousand, two hundred square feet of floor space give ample provision for planned, specialized and efficient warehousing, all on the one level.

The new warehouse is under the direction of Art Harrup, a specialist in this work with years of experience in this work. Maintenance of a modern fork lift allows the waiting trucks to be loaded immediately with minimum delay. Hundreds of tons of Ace-Tex products are passing through the premises, in orders of a few hundred, or in twenty to thirty thousand pound orders at a time. Despite this turnover the organization is such that ample stocks are on hand at all times.

Limited stems from the dark days of the depression. In 1933 the local firm was undergoing reorganization and they wished to represent a good line of roofing products. Owing to the uncertain times no local firm was willing to entertain any suitable arrangement. Canada Roof Products, then a small concern just starting on the mainland was looking for an outlet on the Island and the association was formed.

Today Hickman Tye, as exclusive "Ace-Tex" distributors on Vancouver Island, represent a manufacturing firm that has gained a steadily growing predominance in the market of today. The Hickman Tye Pandora Avenue warehouse contains one of the largest stocks of "Ace-Tex" products in the Province.

95% of all business failures are from the ranks of non-advertisers. (Dunn & Bradstreet)

Expert Favors Killing Some Does, Fawns

Bucks Constitute Only One-Tenth Of Annual Deer Crop for Harvest

NANAIMO—An open hunting season on does and fawns, as well as male deer, was advocated here Friday by Burton Lauckhart, head of the Washington State Game Management Department, in an address at the eighth annual B.C. game convention.

The animal crop is a "harvest," he said, and the chief objection is from those who have not studied the problem and who are "aghast" at the thought of taking fawns.

"But why protect fawns, which could inevitably die before the year is out anyway? However, open season on fawns, does and bucks, of course depends entirely on highly localized conditions of food supply," he said.

He described one example, when in 1949 Okanagan County in Washington had open season on both sexes, and 18,000 deer were shot in the first day.

Another example of "harvesting" deer herds sensibly is the practice on Whitty Island, where one-third of the deer population is shot every year and has been for the past 16 or 17 years. The crop remains much the same every year," Mr. Rockhart said.

NO MYSTERY

"There is nothing mysterious about game management. With proper food, deer herds can increase 30 per cent in a year," he said. "The reason they don't is perhaps what might be termed 'the law of nature.' But food supply and winter food determines the carrying capacity of a given area, beyond which a certain number of animals cannot survive."

He said a season open on bucks alone takes only 10 per cent of the harvestable crop of healthy animals.

Director of the Washington State game department, John Biggs described game management from a fresh viewpoint. The objectives of Washington and British Columbia contemporaries are identical, he said, but must necessarily be arrived at from different angles since population, the number of hunters, and terrain must be influencing factors.

In paying tribute to Frank G. Butler, commissioner, and the late James G. Cunningham, Mr. Biggs said the achievements of the two were legendary, and that Mr. Butler's work had been recognized by the Western U.S. Game Association, of 11 western states and B.C., and by his elevation to that association's presidency.

"Where there is a successful game department, there is always a strong and unified sportsmen's organization behind it, and British Columbia is particularly fortunate in that regard," he said.

Beachcombing Rules Blow to Log Piracy

Log pirates who slip valuable timber from booms under cover of night will be thrown out of operation by provincial government regulations.

The regulations, which go into effect on June 7 in the Georgia Strait and Fraser River area, legalize the long-established practice of beachcombing.

After June 7, all branded logs in the specified area found drifting free in the water, or beached along the shore, must be disposed of through a non-profit organization called Gulf Log Salvage Co-operative.

The regulations provide for the formation of log salvage districts, and log receiving stations, and for the issuing of permits.

LOG TRUCKS

Overloaded? 'Unload It' New Order

Colwood RCMP warned today that stern measures are being taken with overloaded logging trucks following two accidents in the last two days.

Logging truck drivers are now being forced to dump logs at the roadside when they are piled too high, then come back for them.

The reloading process can prove expensive.

First to have to dump part of a load was a woman truck driver from Sooke. She rolled down the highway with an over-height load shortly after E. Braithwaite of Nanaimo had crashed a top log into an overpass at Four Mile Hill Friday afternoon.

Braithwaite was charged with driving an overloaded truck and the offending log was left at the roadside. He was also charged with having no chauffeur's license and his father is charged with employing a driver without ascertaining whether he had a chauffeur's license.

NO CHARGE LAID

The Sooke woman driver wasn't charged, but when RCMP officers measured the height of her logs, she was made to unload one. The same fate awaits other violators, police said.

Thursday a logging truck trailer jackknifed near Sooke and three logs broke to crash into a store, causing about $5,000 damage.

Police said the system of dumping loads which are a hazard will likely be more effective in halting the practice than a summons.

The Commander Beard Trophy, awarded to the top junior high school student at Belmont, was presented to Bunny Jacobson.

Thomas Nelson Given Penalty As 'Habitual'

Eight Officers Give Evidence

NANAIMO — Thomas Nelson, alias Thomas Wilson and Thomas Brown, drew an indeterminate term in penitentiary from Judge L. A. Hanna Friday, when he was convicted on a charge of being a habitual criminal.

He also was convicted for breaking and entering, and being in unlawful possession of a sawed-off shotgun.

The man was arrested near Union Bay with a gun in his possession. He pleaded guilty to all charges.

He was charged also with breaking and entering and theft of an overcoat belonging to Mrs. John Sherwood, of Chemainus, and with breaking and entering premises of James Young Todd and Helen Todd at Royston and the theft of cash and cigarettes.

The case is unique in that eight RCMP from all points of the Island and a detective of the Burnaby police were called as witnesses on the habitual charge.

Nelson, after pleading guilty, defied the Attorney-General of B.C. to sit with him and the press on the habitual charge to prove the Attorney-General was not discriminating against him.

Several years ago RCMP Constable D. Colquhoun, then with the provincial police, was shot in the face by pellets from the shotgun carried by Nelson when he was surprised behind the hardware store of Walls and Bradshaw late at night.

School By-Law

LADYSMITH — A campaign to inform ratepayers residing in School District No. 67 on details of the school building and improvement by-law, to be submitted next month, is being prepared by a special committee of the board of trustees.

Ladysmith Garbage Proposal Check to Roadside Dumping

LADYSMITH — In an effort to eliminate the dumping of refuse along the highway and side roads of this vicinity, city council has decided to permit all persons to dispose of garbage at the city dump.

A fee will be charged for the required permit, and income will help to pay for an attendant at the dump.

This decision will rescind a previous one which closed the dump to all but civic employees.

Under the new regulations the dump will be reopened to the public every Tuesday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Before taking loads to the dump all persons will be required to purchase permits at the city hall. Price of the permits will be 50 cents for residents and 75 cents for non-residents.

WILLING TO PAY

Decision to permit use of the dump by non-residents was prompted by the fact that the Saltair area particularly has no dump of its own and a number of residents have expressed a making an unsightly mess along willingness to pay for the privilege of using the Ladysmith city dump.

The council hopes its action will end, or at least reduce, indiscriminate dumping which is the Trans-Canada Highway both north and south of Ladysmith.

R. S. Wood, city clerk, told the council that an agreement with the B.C. Power Commission under which the city has received power for street lighting in the past five years, will expire Nov. 1.

This will mean that the city will have to pay approximately $25 per year per street light in future.

Of the 141 lights covered in the agreement, 17 are outside the city limits, most of them being in the Bayview area immediately south of the city.

As the city has no authority to buy power for use outside its limits, this will mean that Bayview residents will have to make some arrangement of their own if they wish the street lights to be continued.

Up-Island School Trustees Awaiting Boundary Decision

LADYSMITH — Trustees of School District 67 will press the education department for a decision on a petition from residents of Cowichan district who want to be included in District 67 through a southern extension of its boundaries.

They now live in that portion of Cowichan School District 65 that lies north of Chemainus River.

Following receipt of the petition, the department promised a survey would be made of the situation, but it has been in abeyance since March 18. Parents in the section are anxious to have the matter made clear before school opens in the fall.

In support of the petition, it was stated that the children must walk about a mile to catch the District 65 school bus, and that the road is flooded at certain times of year.

The petitioners also stated

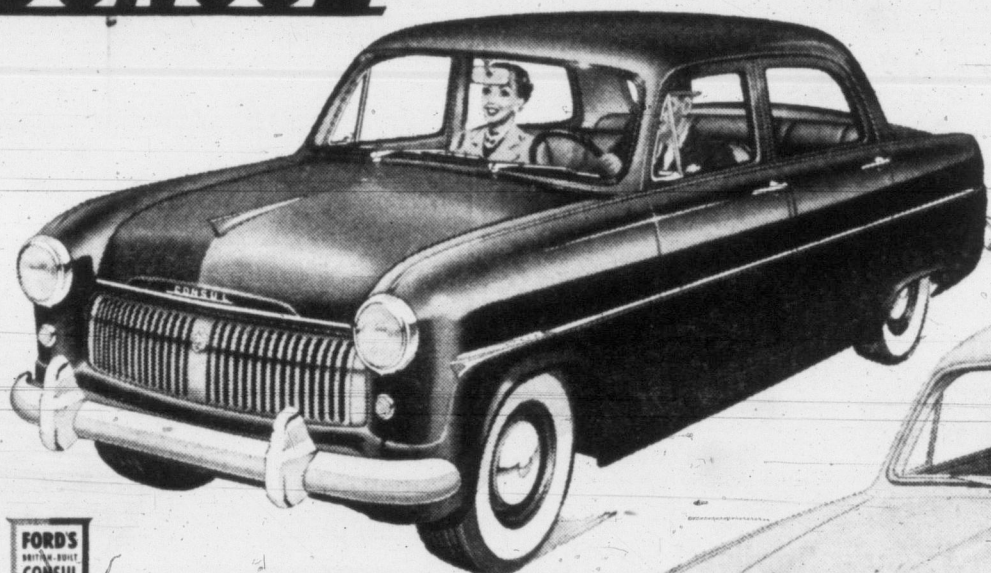

HOSPITAL DISTRICT

Trustee A. E. Beasley pointed out that in defining the new Duncan hospital district, the government had set the northern boundary at the Chemainus River. He added that older children living immediately north of the river could ride to Chemainus schools on their bicycles, but now had to travel 14 miles to the District 65 high school in Duncan.

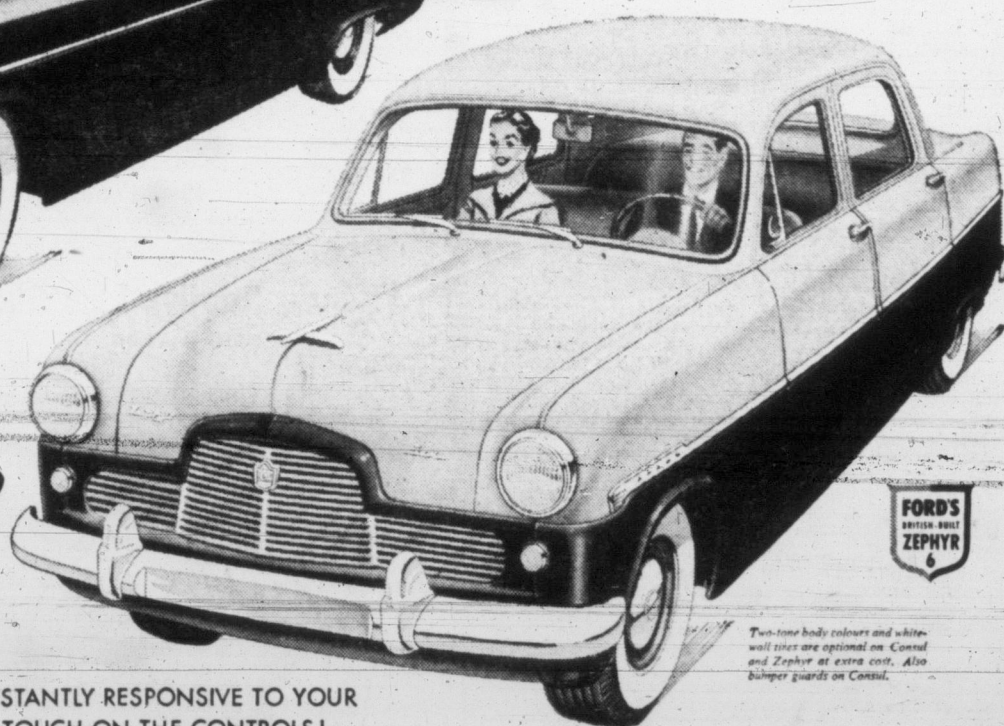

In a letter to the board, J. M. Petrak, senior principal, announced that a report might be held at the Ladysmith Junior-Senior High School on June 3 beginning at 7:30 p.m. Parents have been invited to attend to meet the teachers and discuss with them the progress of their children.

Bedding Plants Ready?

BY JACK BEASTALL

See that all bedding plants are hardened off ready for use. Purchase further bedding plants, if necessary, before stocks are exhausted.

Tuberous begonias should be held for outdoor planting in June when nights are warmer. Continue watering of seedlings and newly planted trees, shrubs and perennials until they are established.

Planting of climbers, rock plants, and certain shrubs which are sold in pots or tin cans may be done at any time.

Finish planting of dahlias. Place stakes by tall growing varieties at time of planting.

Greenhouse should be dampened twice daily during warm weather. Ventilate freely, day and night, avoiding extremes of temperature.

Early flowering garden chrysanthemums should be planted at once, and later ones as soon as possible.

Tomatoes may be planted outdoors in most areas now.

Squash, cucumber and celery plants should be hardened off.

Sow dwarf and runner beans. Sow more beet, carrot, turnip and spinach.

World Architects Offer Views On Canadian Home of Tomorrow

GEOFFREY E. HACKER, Winnipeg, designed this "Canadian Home of Tomorrow" which won the highest award for Canadian entries in the International Calvert House Competition sponsored by McGill University. A grey roof, pink walls and bright yellow trim distinguish this bungalow which the jury selected as suitable for a family of five in a typical Canadian town.

PEELING PAINT

Moisture From Behind Is Menace to Exterior

This is the second of two articles on causes of paint peeling. Last Saturday's article dealt with causes of paint peeling in the exterior of homes.

Let's look at the exterior of the house. As mentioned, the majority of paint peeling problems are on cedar or other siding houses. Modern architecture has almost eliminated the overhanging gable ends and eaves or soffits.

These did protect our walls from all but driving rain to a large extent, but the present trend is to almost flush gable ends and overhang, with the result that more care and attention must be given to flashing and caulking over and around trim and finish.

Our window trim and facings used to be on the outside of the siding and other wall finishes. Nowadays, the siding, shakes, etc., very frequently butt against the trim.

SHRINK THE TRIM

It must be remembered that while end shrinkage is not great in lumber, yet there is some shrinkage, and these butt ends do shrink from the trim, allowing driving rain to enter.

It was mentioned previously that ends and back of siding absorb moisture readily and capillary action takes the moisture far along the board.

Siding is frequently mitred at corners, and with end shrinkage, these mitres open and again we have unprimed wood exposed to driving rain.

We have examined houses where flashings have been overlooked, or in some cases where the builder thought no flashing was necessary, forgetting our driving rains.

UNCLEANED GUTTERS

It was found in one or two instances where peeling was very pronounced that a closed or boxed eave or overhang caused trouble. Gutters had not been properly cleaned and checked and became full of water.

This had gone over the back of the gutter on to the top of the closing board and hence down the wall on the inside. One house reported peeling below some windows. Improperly set casement adjusters were the cause of the trouble. It takes only a small crack to let in a lot of water under the pressure of a wind.

Remember, rain cannot go through a first-grade exterior paint from the outside. Peeling is caused by moisture from behind the film.

Check gutters and downpipes. Go over casings, trim, fascia boards, corners and joints thoroughly.

Use caulking compounds, either by gun or with a putty knife. Check flashings and, if necessary, install a few of the small plastic or aluminum louvers that can be purchased locally, and are simply pressed into a previously drilled hole.

VENTILATE ATTICS

These are ideal for providing ventilation to closed attics (a frequent place of trouble) and can be installed in gable ends or in soffits. In case of houses without basements, the crawl space should be examined. Faulty drains, either from blockage or faulty installation, often are the means of causing excessive moisture or even pools of water under the house.

Some authorities have recommended the use of asphalt type roofing as a cover for ground under houses in extremely bad cases. This roofing should be jointed the same as if laid on a roof. All crawl spaces under houses should have plenty of ventilation.

HELPED HARVEST

The combine thresher-harvester was introduced in the Canadian west in 1922 at Spy Hill, Sask.

Knud Peter Harboe, of Denmark, is the winner of the $5,000 award in the McGill University International Calvert House Competition for the "Canadian Home of Tomorrow."

The Calvert House Canadian award for the best Canadian entry was won by Geoffrey E. Hacker, Winnipeg. The Calvert House European award was won by Gardner Ertman, Edinburgh, Scotland. Each of these awards carries a cash prize of $2,500.

The judges considered more than 650 designs and selected 13 of this number for main prizes and honorable mentions. Among the 10 honorable mentions, each carrying a cash award of $200, were two Canadian, four English, and one each from Austria, Holland, Denmark and France. All the successful contestants were men. Canadian winners were Victor Prus, Brockville, Ontario, and George S. Abram and James B. Craig, of Willowdale, Ontario, who made a joint entry.

"Having regard to the evolving character of architecture, the jury considered the Calvert Competition and the cultural internationality it portrays, a popular episode that could have very important results. No house among those submitted could be said to be the Canadian Home of Tomorrow, but many contain ideas that can be exceedingly influential," the jury reported.

Azalea, Camellia Leaves Yellowing? Try Acid Mix

BY JACK BEASTALL

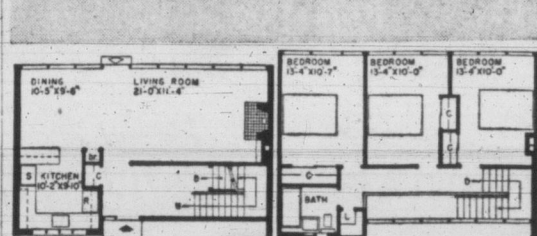

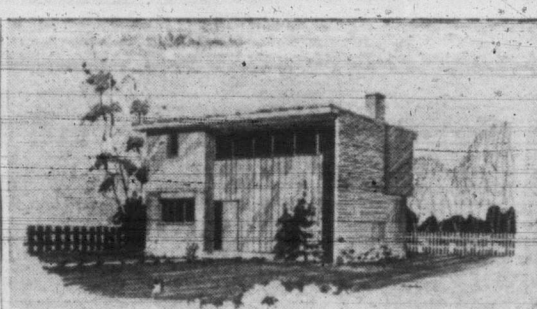

I started a garden two years ago, and this spring some of the shrubs seem to have much paler or yellower leaves. Especially affected are an azalea, camellia and kalmia. What would be the cause and remedy?

The shrubs mentioned all need an acid soil, and most likely they have exhausted the acid supply in their root ball and that from peat moss used at planting time. Suggest you get "acid mix" fertilizer from any garden supply store, apply as directed, watering in well.

Toronto Designer Achieves Unique Exterior Appearance

A unique exterior appearance has been achieved by architect E. D. Ross, of Toronto, in the design of his two-story house. Through the usual combinations of the brick and wood exterior finishes and the unconventional window arrangements, particularly the gallery effect over the stairway and second-floor hall, the common rectangular shape of the flat-roof-house gets an entirely new look.

The combined dining and living room extends the full width of the house and is lighted by a series of windows which form an entire wall looking out on the rear garden and lawn area.

Three ample-size bedrooms and a bathroom are located on the second floor. Plenty of cupboard space is provided in the well-arranged kitchen which is separated from the dining section by a counter with cupboards above.

The total floor area of the house is 1,365 square feet while the cubic measurement is 17,361 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 33 feet by 21 feet. Working drawings for the house, known as Design 521, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

HOW TO DO IT

REPAIRING CORD PLUG

The gadgets that plug into convenient electrical outlets, called cord plugs often come loose. Usually you can blame this on yanking a wire to remove the plug. When it happens, remove half an inch of insulation from each copper wire. Scrape copper bright, twist strands tight, and thread wires back into plug. Then tie underwriters' knot, as shown, just below exposed copper. This will help prevent yanking wire out of plug in the future.

THOSE TIRED DOOR SPRINGS

Your old door springs can be freshened up with paint, which will preserve their life too. For a satisfactory, lasting job, use the thin enamel made for window screens. Stretch the spring slightly between two nails to open coils, then apply paint. Let paint dry before removing spring from nails.

If Colors Match, You're Right

By TOM GOULD

Victorians who decide to have a dinner party should not be confused by the wine with their meals in city as a mysterious ritual. Wine as a beverage is no more confused by the wine list, but difficult to serve than tea or coffee. Deciding on which wine to take, determining the bouquet, flavor and taste of the thousands of varieties, is another matter, and one on which thousands of books have been written.

For informal eating, the rules are simple.

You can have appetizer wines, before the meal, to whet the appetite. Dry sherry, vermouth and the many aperitifs fall in this category.

For most informal meals, only one wine is served throughout, and the half-bottles soon to be available in licensed Victoria restaurants, are ideal for this purpose.

Red table wines go with red meats. They have a slight tartness that blends with such meats. They are served at room temperatures.

White table wines are good with fish and seafood. They have a characteristic acidity which enhances these foods. Sweet white wines usually are served with dessert or fruit, but some prefer them throughout a fish meal.

Chicken, turkey and other white-meat birds can be eaten with red, white or pink wines with equal suitability.

When only one wine is served it should be taken first at the same time, the main course is served, or just before it is served. In this way the diner can sip after his first taste of food.

The bottle can be passed from hand to hand around the table as it has for hundreds of years on tables in the wine-drinking countries of Europe.

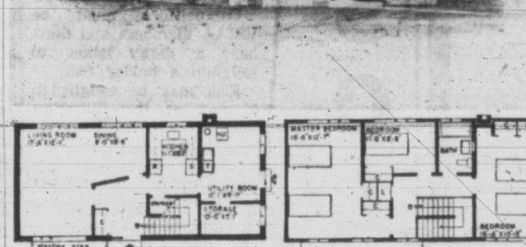

Here are some of the types of wines available and their place in the meal:

Sherry: Dry sherry is the most popular appetizer wine. Sweet sherry is usually served with dessert.

Vermouth: Another appetizer wine, flavored with herbs. The two types of vermouth available, Italian and French, differ only in that the former is sweet, and dark amber, and the latter pale amber.

White table wines: Under this heading come the many Chablis, Fille Blanche, Light Muscat, Hock, Moselle, Sauterne and Catawba. All are served with white meat or seafood.

Red table wines: Red wines for red meat. These are Burgundy, Claret, Pinot Noir and Chianti. Their rich red color

Simple Lines for Economy, Space to Suggest Leisure

Here is a two-story, basement-less house which offers spacious accommodation. Architect Basil Capes, of Toronto, has designed the house along simple lines for economy but has used a wide window and planting area to enhance the exterior appearance.

All rooms are of more than ample dimensions, and are arranged for convenient living. This is particularly evident in the combined living and dining area which is well lighted but has one unbroken wall for placing of furniture. The U-shaped kitchen boasts plenty of cupboard space and is adjacent to a storage room. Larger storage space is located off the utility room.

A generous supply of closet space is provided upstairs where a large bedroom is located at either end. A smaller third bedroom and a bathroom complete the second story plan.

The total floor area of the house is 1,506 square feet while the cubic measurement is 17,820 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 41 feet, eight inches, by 19 feet, two inches. Working drawing for the house, known as Design 523, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

CAA Heads Asks Added Federal Road Spending

The federal government should pay from 75 to 100 per cent of Trans-Canada Highway costs rather than the present 50-50 split with the provinces, H. R. Chauncey, Calgary, president of the Canadian Automobile Association, said here Friday.

The federal contribution should be upped because of high revenues Ottawa receives from the motoring public, he said. Trans-Canada Highway construction has been particularly slow in the Maritimes and western provinces because of what he termed "lack of physical equipment."

Uniformity of road signs across Canada was termed by Mr. Chauncey as "a must." At present, every province differs from the other in road sign styles and even some municipalities have their own, he said.

He said this was unnecessarily bothersome and confusing to the traveling public.

At present there are 225,000 individual members of auto clubs in Canada; 53,000 in B.C., and 5,000 on Vancouver Island. Of toll roads, Mr. Chauncey said they "must be thrown out." Road construction should be strictly a public service, he said.

Foyer's Sentence Upheld by Court

Conviction of James Foyer by Judge J. B. Clearhugh in county court Victoria, on a morals charge has been confirmed by the B.C. Court of Appeal in Vancouver.

Foyer was sentenced to one year in jail for living in part on the avails of prostitution last November.

VISITOR SEES U.K. UPHEAVAL

Britain Awakened By Graham's Tour

By TONY DICKASON

Comfortably settled in a deep leather chair in the Union Club, monochrome firmly placed and glistening in his left eye, Cmdr. Geoffrey Marescaux de Saubert, RN (Ret.) today predicted evangelist Billy Graham's impact in the United Kingdom "is going to make a tremendous difference to the whole English religious outlook."

Cmdr. Marescaux, 53, son of the late Vice-Admiral Gerald de Marescaux, CB, CMG, here on a fortnight visit to see his 92-year-old aunt, Mrs. G. Booth, Loretto Hall, attended three of the U.S. evangelist's services recently in London.

The British Admiralty employee (language section) said "our churches have, by Mr. Graham, been shown other ways of publicity, rather than the orthodox or perhaps more old-fashioned methods."

Popularization of religion in the present age needs up-to-date techniques, he emphasized. Mr. Graham did just this, and followed up people who decided to change their lives for the better with counsel service and a flow of literature.

"He has taken a page out of the business promotional book," the commander said. Certain British newspapers and publications, which said in effect before the evangelist's arrival, that England did not want and would not appreciate his methods, have had to do an about-face.

MEETINGS JAMMED

"Everybody I spoke with concerning Mr. Graham was most enthusiastic. Why? Because of his sincerity. He crystallizes what the people feel in their hearts. He fills a distinct need."

The evangelist's meetings "are absolutely jammed every night." Interest has been sparked and fanned not only among men in the street but on all levels of society and thought, he said.

The commander was a career RN type before his retirement. He is currently a civilian employee of the admiralty. His naval career started when he was 13 years of age and included Dartmouth training (with Lord Louis Mountbatten) and service in both world wars.

The casual and relaxed Englishman said that the British Navy was now concentrating on submarine "killers," both ships and methods, to counter any possible threat from Russia, concentrating on a submarine navy.

KNOWS RUSSIA

He speaks Russian fluently, among other languages, and all three services in England have training schemes under way for teaching of the language.

"It's hard to pick up, but Russians have told me that when an Englishman does speak the language, they do damn well in pronunciation."

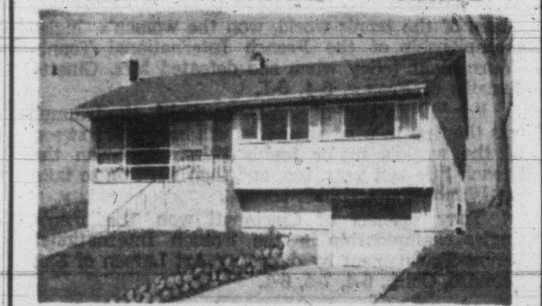

The commander was in Russia at the "fag end" of the civil war in 1920 aboard his ship HMS Ramilles.

LITTLE MO OFF AGAIN ON TITLE-WINNING WAYS

PARIS (UP) — Maureen Connolly, America's queen of the tennis world, won the women's singles championship of the French International Tennis Tournament today when she defeated Mrs. Ginette Bucaille of France, 6-4, 6-1.

For "Little Mo" of San Diego, Calif., the triumph was the first in what she hopes will be another sweep of the world's major tennis titles. She won the French title last year, too, and then went on to take the Wimbledon and U.S. crowns.

Tony Trabert of Cincinnati won the men's singles championship in the French International Tennis Tournament by defeating Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

End of the week and it's still hard to believe that the "Big Train" has rolled to a stop at last, but as we all knew he eventually would.

Lionel Conacher undoubtedly was the greatest sports figure of the generation and he died as he played—"from the first drop of the puck to the end."

Truly a great Canadian, he was an outstanding athlete to those who knew him and played against him and a legend to those of us who never had that pleasure.

As Frank Selke of the Montreal Canadiens said: "He achieved success on his own ability and nothing else."

Lionel made only one speech in the House of Commons and it came on the occasion when he was named the Canadian sportsman of the half century in 1951.

He waived the great honor that had come to him, commenting: "Parliament had too many important problems to be concerned with matters such as this."

Of sport he said:

"... it has a proper place in our way of life, and that, while overdone in many instances it has served a useful purpose, particularly among the younger generation, as it helps them to develop their bodies; and a healthy body, I am sure we all agree, develops a healthy mind."

That was Lionel Conacher, the athlete, the successful business man, the parliamentarian and the greatest sports figure of an era of Canadian sport that will long live in history.

As Art Chapman of the Vancouver Canucks so aptly put it:

"We lost quite a guy."

Meanwhile the Shamrocks bid for an honor that so far has escaped them this year.

Though no more than a hair off the terrific pace of the surprising Indians of Jake Proctor, the Irish haven't taken charge this year, as they did last year and the year before.

Maybe they've been a little too complacent in the belief that they're invincible, but you still can't fault a club with a record like theirs. The material is there in abundance just as the competition is sitting in the tepee of the Indians, and after Friday night, who can discount the Nanaimo Sons. And there's nothing like competition to bring out the best in a club.

And that's what will be needed in the next few days—the best and nothing less—if the Rocks are to assume their rightful place atop the Intercity ladder. Four games in six days is the rugged grind, with Sons, Royals, Pils and Indians in that order.

And a word to the wise: The Indians are a happy club, just as the Irish were in that "green as grass" inaugural season. And a happy club is a good club. This one is well drilled, too!

From the mail-bag: And we have been honored with a note from far off Kent, England. The writer is Bert Bridges, a director of an English League division side, who, besides sending greetings home (he went to school here), found a news story on this side of the Atlantic concerning the Cup Final a trifle misleading.

Mr. Bridges assures us, and we're certain that others who have been there will agree, "that there is no stampede or mishaps of any description." His guest at the 32 Wembley final was Mr. G. Swan of Victor Street.

For the Scottish fans, Mr. Bridges points out that he had the pleasure of attending the International match between England and Scotland at Hampden Park and gives full marks to Tom Finney for England's victory that day. "He (Finney) was superb," Mr. Bridges writes.

And why is it that when the orchids are being passed out, one particular name is always missing from the engraved honored list. Perhaps it's the fact that Charlie Lewis' nature is such that he's always taken for granted, an unforgivable sin, and because his tremendous contribution to sport locally has come to be expected is why the appreciation has not been tendered to the full. Which it is now.

Times Athlete Race Enters Final Week

Like two eager thoroughbreds, Arnie Ferguson and Whitey Severson, from the Victoria Shamrock stables, are racing down to the wire in the annual Times Amateur Athlete of the Year classic.

Ferguson, who trailed the field for the first half of the race, has staged a tremendous finishing kick since January and is holding a comfortable lead as the contest nears its close.

Ballots will be received by the Times until the morning of June 5, at which time the contest will end and the winner will be announced.

The final winner, judged solely on the weight of ballots sent in by the city's sports fans, will receive the handsome Times Perpetual Trophy and a replica.

In order that fans may have every opportunity to honor the amateur athletes of their choice in the final days of the event, contest ballots will be carried in the Times sports pages every day next week until the end of the contest.

In addition, daily reports on the contest will be carried to keep fans posted on the progress of the leaders.

As it now stands, without an official tabulation, Ferguson is ahead in the voting, with Severson still close enough behind that he could overhaul Ferguson in the final week.

Others who have received fairly heavy voting are Joe Travis, Pete Winter, Lionel Speller, Bob Fleming, Archie Browning, Jim Hetherington, Tommy Druce, Johnny Clark and John Balloch.

Ferguson added to his lead this week when he pulled in 29 more votes than Severson.

Ferguson, Severson and Pete Winter were the only nominees this week. Winter, who received a late start, has been well supported since the youngster took over in goal for the Victoria United soccer team.

Sports fans are urged to support their favorite Victoria athlete by filling in the ballot coupon and mailing it to the Amateur Athlete of the Year Committee, Sports Department, Victoria Daily Times.

Don's Debut Fine, --Esks Don't Scare

Tyees Lose; Home Stand Ends Tonight

Edmonton 9, Victoria 6

By BILL WALKER

"I like this park, and I like Victoria," Don Lundberg was heard to remark shortly before game time of the WIL contest between the Tyees and Edmonton Eskimos Friday night.

Don, being a catcher recently purchased from Calgary Stamps, was then assigned to bull-pen duty.

Seven innings later, with the Tyees attempting a rally, he was waved in to hit for Berlyn Hodges who had taken over mound chores where Bill Botter had failed earlier.

Edmonton's Charlie LeBrun took his stretch and threw a change-up at the big, handsome fellow. Lundberg stepped back and ripped a line drive off third baseman Don Gilg's glove for a single. Eddie Lake scored from third and Lundberg had showed his appreciation.

However, the aerial unfortunately ends there, for that run wasn't enough to offset what had gone before, and the Tyees eventually fell victim to the Eskimos, 9-6.

Still, it heralded another landmark in the Tyees' all-out plans this season. For with Lundberg's acquisition pitcher Bob Moen and utility man Armando Sanchez were told their services had been terminated.

And now the Tyees anxiously await the arrival of yet another pitcher Joe Nicholas, who is on his way north from California to join the club.

Edmonton's victory, which put the Esks half a game ahead of the Tyees in second place, was accomplished by the simple expedient of twice getting the jump and then, when under pressure, by scoring five runs in the sixth to come from behind a 5-3 deficit.

TWO HOMERS

Whitey Thompson homered with Dan Prentice aboard in the second to start proceedings. And although Botter aided his own cause, at the time by doubling home the tying mark in the Tyee second, Verne Campbell homered in the third and the Esks again held the upper hand.

Tyees made their best bid in the fifth when singles by Steve Mesner, Tommy Perez and Joe Joshua, preceded by an error by Augie Amorena, produced three runs.

The Esks ripped back in that sixth frame for five runs on singles by Bob Brown, John McKeown and Dan Prentice and a double by Amorena, and were aided by two Tyee errors.

Tonight will be the series finale and the Tyees' swan song at home for a week. Hodges goes for the Tyees and Kimball for the Esks.

A Week's Work

By DENNY BOYD

Here's a toast to the Silent Army of Unknown Athletes.

Clerks, cops and copy-boys; you'll find them all in the Utility Softball League but you'll never hear of them, for such is their fate.

Anonymity cloaks them except for the small paragraph of agate type that appears in these sheets once a week, listing scores and standings. Radio stations proclaim their feats with shrieks of silence. Want ads seeking a lost poodle rate more space in the dailies. But these once-a-week athletes couldn't care less. They have, without fanfare or fans, the time of their lives.

You take a guy who works in the lingerie department of a large department store. All day he peddles Mademoiselles Stretchy-Wetchnies to female customers, the size of whom should be conferred on Annis Stukys' linemen.

At night he goes home, whereupon his wife bellows at him, his kids whine at him and his dog barks at him.

But then comes that glorious Thursday night. In a twinkling, this humble, down-trodden clerk suddenly becomes a hawk-eyed outfielder, able to travel huge distances in a single bound. He runs the bases in a frenzy, glares with hatred at the opposing pitcher. The guy is transported. Nothing matters except that Hoffmiers' Emporium leads Schultz' Wiener Shop by two runs.

Gentlemen to the Last

People don't get mad in this league. Recently, the Deadliners (composed of ink-stained wretches in the employ of Victoria Press) met the dapper gentlemen from Cec Fletcher's in a test of skill and daring.

This sports classic roared along in superb style until the final inning, when it was discovered that one score-keeper had the score 10-8 for Deadliners while the other scorer made it 8-6 for Fletchers.

Instead of everyone exploding in a monumental tizzy, hanging the scorers and then laying into each other with fist and invective, as would have been the case in a higher league, the two teams came to an admirable compromise. They called it a 6-6 tie and everyone went home smug and happy as ants in a sugar mill.

This very writer recently was called upon to umpire a game, did so, rendered some wretched decisions but was called a donkey only once, and then in hushed tones.

These chaps of the Utility Softball League are far too busy being ball players to fritter away time acting like churls or hot-shots.

Another pleasant aspect of this circuit is expenses, which are none. Teams have been started with a ball, a bat, a catcher's mask, three pillows for bases and nine bodies. Some of the teams get real serious and purchase uniforms, but these are quite unnecessary, as are mits, spikes and caps.

Naught From Naught Is Naught

Those fellows in the big stone house down by Inner Harbor derive no loot from this league, which is entirely exempt from the guff and twaddle of amusement tax. Any percentage of nothing is still nothing, and nothing approximates the gross gate of any Utility League double-header at Macdonald Park. There is amusement, indeed, but no tax.

These teams—they come from places like Hudson's Bay, RCMP, Mac & Mac—will battle it out all summer, far removed from the mad-dening crowd. When the time comes for the league championship the crowds may increase—perhaps the wife of one of the shortstops will bring her sister. Sometimes there is a hero, too. A foggy memory keeps whispering that basketball player Ralph Anderson hit a large home run in last year's final to win the championship for Fletchers.

To the members of the winning team, the victory will be the most important sports item of the summer, rivaling Rog Bannister's historic gallop.

But to the average sports fan, it will still be the microscopic story with the one-column headline at the bottom of the page.

But the guys in the Utility Softball League don't want fame and headlines. They just want to come home after a hard day at the office and make like Ted Williams for a couple of hours.

And why not? More power to them.

Sudbury Had the Team And the Gimmicks Too

SUDBURY (CP)—They did the darndest things in the Sudbury Arena this past hockey season.

A stuffed wolf shot out of the overhead control booth and a recorded wolf howl shrieked every time the home club scored a goal.

Mabel's, Good Time Charlie's, Joe's Place and Hole-in-the-Wall drew mobs of snack-bar customers.

They sold gum and life-savers at a nickel a package, a cent less than the regular price.

HOT STOVE FANS

The management installed wooden keg seats and old-fashioned stoves for the fans to sit around and shoot the old hockey line between periods.

And the high jinks paid off. The 6,637-capacity Sudbury Arena, the third largest rink in Ontario—exceeded by Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens and Kitchener's Auditorium—crossed $179,901 for 30 games attended through the door into the flare by 154,779 fans. The popcorn, hot dog and coffee sales boomed. More than 8,000 sales of all kinds were made on routine nights.

And Sudbury Wolves, backed by the solid support of this hockey-mad city, went to the Allan Cup final where they lost to Penitence V's.

The man behind these off-beat antics was George Panter, arena manager, who came up with a few zany ideas to give hockey a shot in the arm. A former player, Panter got into hockey as Ontario Hockey Association president and then was OHA business manager before he came to Sudbury.

THAT WOLF GIMMICK

The stuffed wolf was given to the Wolves Hockey Club by the sports department of the Sudbury Star. It sat in the dressing room for some time before Panter got an idea.

He installed a trap door in the control booth. Every time Sudbury scored, the control booth operator shoved the wolf through the door into the flare of two spotlights, then turned on the wolf howl record that drowned out the loudest cheers.

The writers unanimously picked Rosen as the most valuable player in the American League last season, the first time any player had been selected on a perfect ballot since the system started 22 years ago.

This season the Cleveland star is ahead of his last year's pace in every department. In 37 games he has collected 51 hits in 137 times at bat for an average of .372. He's hit 13 home runs, scored 29 and driven in 48. At the same stage a year ago he was hitting .338 with 47 hits, 10 homers, 22 runs and 30 runs batted in.

Friday night he broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Early Wynn and Steve Gromek of Detroit with his 13th home run, with Larry Doby on base in the seventh inning. The final score was 3-0 as Wynn checked the Tigers on two hits.

TRIBE LEADS

By winning, the Indians stayed nine percentage points ahead of the crushing Chicago White Sox, who swept a twilght-night double-header from the slump-driven Baltimore Orioles, 11-6 and 14-8. New York Yankees came from six runs behind to edge Boston 10-9 and Philadelphia A's bowed to Washington 12-6.

In the National League, the first-place Milwaukee Braves extended their winning streak to 10, although they had to go 12 innings to beat St. Louis Cardinals 3-2. New York Giants battered Brooklyn 17-6, knocking the Dodgers into fourth place. Philadelphia Phils defeated Pittsburgh 4-0 in a game shortened to six innings because of rain, and Cincinnati beat Chicago Cubs 6-3 in the only daylight action in either circuit.

My Greatest Shot

By CHICK HARBERT

After starting the third round of the 1942 Los Angeles Open 5 above par on the first six holes, I birdied the seventh and ninth to make the turn at the Hillcrest Country Club in 39, 3 above.

I pushed my drive on the 10th hole almost out of bounds, found the ball in a large clump of bushes, well to the right, about 90 yards from the green. It was here that I made my greatest shot.

I was left practically an impossible shot, over the bushes, under the branches of a very large tree and over a guarding sandtrap to an extremely fast green.

Using a 7 iron, I played the ball to within a quarter of an inch of the hole.

The shot helped me to birdie 3, the hole, a 30 for the back nine and a 69 for the round.

The big thing on that shot—and any other shot—was that I didn't do it with my hands and arms. I had my feet, legs and hips in the swing.

A good grip is the key to your swing, but you need that firm foundation—feet, legs and hips in the swing.

Tobacco, Dobbie Set New B.C. Prep Marks

KELOWNA (CP)—Terry Tobacco, stylish sprinter from Cumberland, and towering Bill Dobbie of Esquimalt High School, set new British Columbia high school marks Friday in elimination competition of the provincial high school track and field championships.

Running in the opening heat of the two-day meet, Tobacco covered the 220-yard distance in 22.7 seconds, to smash the former senior boys' record of 24.7 set in 1951 by A. Hester of Creston.

Dobbie, who reached the finals in four events, raised the senior boys' discus record by more than six feet as he recorded a toss of 124 feet 3 1/2 inches.

In addition to reaching the discus final, Dobbie qualified in the senior hop-step-and-jump, the shot put and the 440-yard race. Gerry Harris of Esquimalt, second in his heat of the 100-yard dash, also qualified for the discus final and in the shot put event.

George Robbins, who will represent Mount View in the senior half-mile, reached the final of the broad jump and 440-yard events.

Claudia Gelling of Oak Bay led all contestants in eliminations in the senior girls' broad jump, and is given a good chance to take the title in that event today.

Two girls representing Victoria area schools breezed in the finals of the senior sprints. Frances Magwood of Esquimalt and Oak Bay's Sue Burnett both moved into the finals of the 60 and 100-yard sprints.

Parkins Leads City Cricket Batting Marks

Oak Bay players head both the batting and bowling averages in the Victoria and District Cricket League to date.

Ted Parkins, with a total of 149 runs for an average of 49.67, is well ahead of his nearest competitor, Bob Mainwaring, of Albions.

In the bowling, Bernard Lennox is top with eight wickets at a cost of 2.5 each. It is not expected that he will be playing for the rest of the season, however, and the next four in the list are closely spaced.

Qualifications are a minimum of eight wickets and 35 runs.

	Innings	Out	Score	Avg
Parkins	4	1	68a	49.67
Mainwaring	4	1	39	32.67
Moss	4	1	40a	32.67
Hannafor	3	1	26a	26.50

Fletchers 4, Arrows 2-

Cec Fletchers finally lived up to their pre-season rating Friday night at Central Park, and with Ed Foychuk hurling six-hit ball the Clothiers dumped Arrow Furniture, 4-2, to tighten the Senior A Softball League race.

In a battle of giants, in which three home runs were hit in the low scoring game, it was the dippy-doodle pitches of Foychuk that turned the tide.

TWO MISTAKES

Except for back-to-back home runs by Archie Sluggett and Ronnie Benn in the seventh inning, Arrows failed to get a runner around to third base.

Fletchers opened the scoring with two runs in the last of the third on two singles, a fielder's choice and an infield error.

Fletchers scored their third run in the fourth on singles by Verne Evans, Les Wilson and Jimmy Morrison.

In the last of the sixth Tim Walker lined a home run to right field to put Fletchers ahead 4-0.

The furnituremen got another rally going in the ninth but pinch hitter Laurie Britton ended the game by striking out on three straight pitches.

GAMES SUNDAY

Sunday Cec Fletchers will meet United Services at Central Park and Chinese Students journey to Duncan. Games in both cities start at 2:30. Short score follows:

Arrow Furniture	000 000 200-2	8 1
Cec Fletchers	002 101 002-4	8 1
Chinese and W. Turner, Psychuk and Wilson.
W. L. Pts.
United Services	W 7 3 0 14
Arrow Furniture	W 6 2 0 12
Cec Fletchers	W 5 4 0 10
Mayo Lumber	W 2 6 0 4
Chinese Students	W 2 6 0 4

HURRICANE RIPS BACK

NEW YORK (AP)—Hurricane Jackson swarmed over blood-spattered Charley Norkus Friday night to score a technical knockout victory in 2:29 of the fifth round and recapture lost prestige in the heavyweight ranks.

Jackson, weighed 192 1/2, Norkus 194 pounds.

Beaten in his last start by "spoiler" Jimmy Slade, the Hurricane cut loose after a slow start. Referee Al Berl stopped the battle as Norkus fell back against the ropes near a neutral corner.

Jackson, a 4-to-1 favorite, staggered Norkus with a solid left hook in the fourth and almost knocked him down with another left hook early in the fifth.

DECISION MONDAY IN KIWANIS 'KINDNESS VILLAGE' CONTESTS

Here 97 Years, Widow Leads 'Senior Citizen' List

The latest entry in the Victoria Kiwanis "Senior Citizen" contest has lived almost a century in Victoria.

Mrs. Jane Morley, 2895 Colquitz, was born in Victoria June 7, 1857, making her 97 next month.

Mrs. Morley has spent all of her life in Victoria, except for a few visits with relatives on the mainland.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Attention, enterprising merchants of Victoria. Between Times herewith presents you with THE publicity idea of 1954.

This idea is guaranteed to get your store's picture in the papers and also to cause a great deal of word-of-mouth publicity.

The idea is to cash in on the attention currently focused on the two little words, "Licensed Premises."

The way to do this is, label YOUR business establishment "Licensed Premises."

I do not suggest that you all go into the business of serving drinks. Just display the sign.

Which you are perfectly justified in doing, whether you sell kiddies' clothes, hardware, or fish and chips.

If you don't believe me, consult your dictionary.

Mrs. Gertrude Humber, of Esplanade Avenue doesn't see eye to eye with me on the question of moderation in drinking.

In the course of a letter dealing with several subjects, Mrs. Humber writes:

"There is another question on which I am afraid I do not agree so wholeheartedly. That is the liquor question. "If alcoholic drinks are an evil (and they must be since they cause so much suffering in the world) how can you reason that you or I or anyone can be temperate with evil; when its slightest indulgence is abuse?"

"People who take their stand for drinking temperately would be very much disturbed if their boy or girl went out and stole just a little bit, and they would be afraid of what it would lead to in the future."

"I believe its slightest use is abuse, and is not helping our nation in solving the problems of the world today."

"I could write on at length about this subject, for in my lifetime I have seen those who have suffered agony through people whom they loved becoming drunkards."

My thanks to Mrs. Humber for a sincere expression of opinion, reasonably phrased.

But I must confess, it had never occurred to me to compare drinking a "little bit" with stealing "a little bit."

During prohibition times both drinking and stealing were against the law, and could therefore be placed in the same category.

But I don't recollect any marked decrease in either drinking OR stealing when total prohibition was the law.

My point, Mrs. Humber, is that you can't legislate common sense or self-restraint into a man.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Dr. J. G. Brown of the Church of Our Lord returned Friday from an extensive trip to eastern Canada and will conduct both services at the church Sunday.

A recital by three winners in the recent Greater Victoria Music Festival will be presented Sunday afternoon at 4.30 at the Arts Centre, 1040 Moss Street.

Taking part will be vocal artists Kitty Dixon and Beverley Husband, and pianist Joanne Dawson.

The recital is open to the public without charge.

Another step toward establishment of a centre for Victoria's handicapped citizens was taken Friday night at a meeting in the Health and Welfare Centre, Cook Street.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

Last Saturday was another of those bad days for Mrs. Brown. Back from shopping, she let herself into the house quietly and tiptoed past the open living room door, hoping her husband wouldn't notice. But it was no good; "What's the big idea?" he asked, following her into the kitchen. Poor Mrs. Brown: she knew he wouldn't let up until she told him. "I'm mad at myself," she replied, turning out the contents of a paper bag. "There were some nice glasses at the store," she continued, "and I decided to get some tumblers at nineteen cents and sherry glasses at twenty-nine."

"That sounds cheap enough," remarked Mr. Brown, "and we certainly need tumblers." His wife sighed. "Yes, I know," she went on, "but then Betty came up and of course had to interfere; you know what she is. She persuaded me to get three more of the sherry glasses than I had intended, but no tumblers. She said I could get tumblers any time. And she also made me buy six of these silly glass markers." Mrs. Brown held up a cute little clip in the shape of an ace of hearts, adding: "And I fell for her suggestion as the whole lot came to one cent less than my original idea."

"But that's dandy," exclaimed her husband, clipping a marker on to a glass, "and how much did these cost?" And that was the very question she'd been fearing all along. She had quite forgotten the price of the markers, and could only remember they were cheaper than the tumblers, an exact number of cents cheaper. Perhaps you can figure it out. Answer Tuesday.

Friday's Answer: Peg's father sent 139 books.

Parents and others interested in formation of the sports program are invited to attend.

Sports chairman of each park committee will be in attendance.

Meeting will be held Monday night at 8 at 715 Johnson Street.

Meadow Park playground committee will hold a dance at Hampton Hall June 2 with proceeds going toward improvement of the playground, corner of Dysart and Ker Avenues.

Dancing will be from 9 to 12, with music provided by Stan Cross and his orchestra.

A five-cent hourly pay increase and a union shop were among points won in the new agreement approved by Local 2415 of the Pile Drivers, Bridge and Dock and Wharf Builders' Union (APL-TLC) and contractors this week.

A. Haines, president of the union local, said the agreement was the last offer of the contractors. The pay increase came effective May 26.

Mrs. Morley, whose parents arrived in Victoria aboard the ship Norman Morrison in 1853, was born at Royal Oak.

Her father, E. A. Williams, was employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, and her mother was one of Victoria's first postal employees.

Mrs. Morley was one of 10 children, and is the only living member of the family.

She is the widow of John Morley, the first veterinarian appointed to Victoria by the Dominion government.

She has two children, Mrs. J. W. Newbury, with whom she lives, and A. J. Morley, of Joshua, Tree, Calif. Other relatives include five grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Morley's entry into the Kiwanis contest places her in top position in the race to determine the resident who has lived longest in Victoria.

Another award will be made to the longest-married couple living in the city.

Prize-winners in the contest, aimed at promoting the Kiwanis drive for $30,000 on Monday night, to complete Kiwanis Village housing project for senior citizens, will be announced and presented with their awards on MacDonald's "Housewives" Holiday radio program on Monday.

A last-minute plea for about 150 volunteers to canvass in the Esquimalt, James Bay, Victoria West, and Swan Lake districts was issued by Kiwanis officials today.

"We're very happy with the way things are going," said one official, "but we still need those few canvassers."

Campaign captains are working hard in an effort to distribute canvassing kits to all volunteers before Monday.

Volunteers who have not received kits by Monday morning should contact drive headquarters at 2-6161.

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN AIDS JAN ZACH ART STUDENT

$4,000 Comes From Nowhere For Abstract Abstractionist

By TONY DICKASON

An abstract young man here is $4,000 richer today because he is abstract, and an artist.

T-shirted, bespectacled Robert Pravda has received a city bank's cheque for $4,000 in the mail—from an anonymous patron.

Thirty-two-year-old Bob is an abstractionist painter, a student of the well-known Czech painter, Jan Zach.

"I have no idea where the money came from, none at all," he says. The letter which accompanied the cheque was signed by R. Elliott, securities manager of the Bank of Montreal.

"It simply said the bank had been instructed to forward the amount to me."

One thing the artist does know: his benefactor is a woman.

Mr. Elliott said, "She wished to remain completely anonymous. She told me what to write."

VISIT TO VENICE

Are you going to have a bit of a party with the money? Say, $50 worth? Bob was asked.

"I'm not going to touch that money until I'm ready to leave," he replied. He intends to go to Europe this fall for further study, taking in the world bi-centennial of art in Venice.

He says he is appreciative of the fact the money was given anonymously, "so I won't be indebted to any particular individual, as money does obligate you."

NAVY VETERAN

The RCNVR veteran—Murmansk convoys, D-Day—has not the slightest thought of doing anything but studying with the endowment. . . . no down payments on a rose-fringed cottage. "There are no prospects of my getting married while I'm studying" is how he puts it.

A Saskatoon, Sask., native and a graduate of the normal school there, he has been seriously interested in art just about four years, supporting himself by teaching and "selling a few paintings."

He admits to the term "abstractionist," which to the casual viewer means an artist who paints pictures the viewer doesn't understand.

Do people, generally, like abstractions?

"Painting is like music," he explains. "Most people look at a picture for what they can see. This is not the proper way. They should look for color, harmony, form. With this as a basis an artist can express himself."

WONT "CATER"

The artist must never allow himself to cater to the public, he believes, although he admits gravely it is easier to sell pictures the public wants to see.

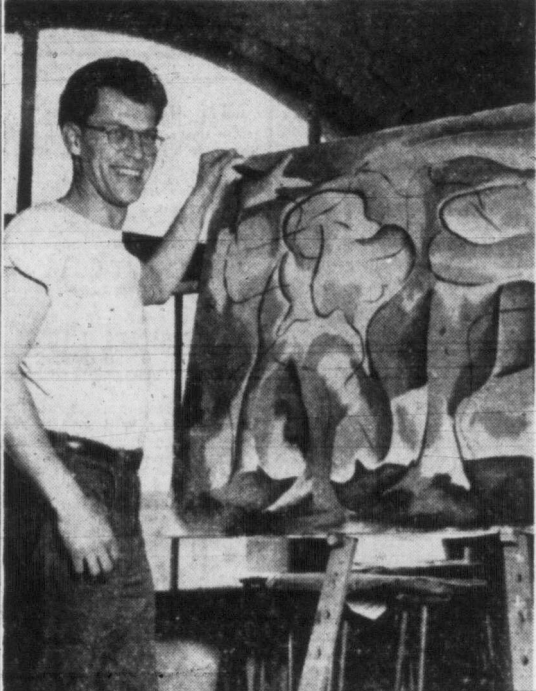

He finds it hard to put a price on a picture "as it is part of the person who paints it."

"Victoria is cool towards contemporary art" but there are people here who are sincerely and genuinely interested. Quite a number . . . well, not quite the Greater Victoria Arts Centre, along with paintings from other studio artists—numbering about 30—June 2 to 13.

Bob has been in Victoria only since last September. He was attracted to the Zach studio after meeting with him at a summer school in Banff last year.

Five of the young artist's paintings will be on display at year.

"WEeping WOMEN"—Five sittings by model were needed before city art student, Robert Pravda, 32, completed this painting. Canvas shows nude woman with head on arms (right). Other nude has hand on head. Art study in Europe has been assured for Pravda by anonymous patron's $4,000 gift. (Times Photo.)

JAZZ-WISE TO JAMBOREE WITH BOB SMITH AT MIKE

A heaping portion of modern music will be served to Victorians Monday night in the city's first Jazz Festival.

To be held at Victoria Ballroom, starting at 8.30, the jazz jamboree will feature the 19-piece Victoria All-Star orchestra, Continentals small combo and Betts and Her Buddie, a vocal group.

Bob Smith, jazz-wise proprietor of CBU's Friday night program, Hot Air, will be in Victoria to act as master of ceremonies for the show.

The orchestra, enlarged to 19 pieces, will feature Naimo trumpeter, Al Campbell, who recently joined the band.

Advance tickets for the festival may be purchased at 743 Fort Street.

TODAY'S GARDEN HINT

Graceful, Lovely Lupins Easy to Grow

The first of the summer perennials coming into flower are so enchanting that we immediately want other gardeners to know about them.

Lupins, for instance, are not seen in enough of the smaller gardens, yet they are of easy culture in this area.

In appearance they have everything—grace and elegance in the three-foot spikes of pea-like bloom, fresh green of foliage, and exquisite shades of strong and pastel colors. The Russell strain of Lupins contain the best habits and colors.

Another perennial coming into flower and one which never fails in interest, is the Aquilegia or Columbine.

These are not like the ones remembered from childhood.

Record School Enrollment Predicted Here

More Classroom Changes Planned

The number of children starting school in September is expected to hit an all-time high, school authorities acknowledged today.

While one more week remains for the registration of children who will be entering grade one and kindergarten this year, indications are enrollment is already up to last year's total.

Parents of children who have not enrolled them for entering grade one or kindergarten have been asked to do so next week at any elementary school between 3 and 4 p.m.

In anticipation of the increased enrollment in grades one to six, plans are under way for the opening of five classrooms before the new school year. Three additional classrooms will be opened at Oak Bay Primary, one in an annex at Victoria West, and another annex room at Sir James Douglas.

Overcrowding at Doncaster School, from which a few pupils were turned away in recent months, will be relieved by removal of grade 7 and 8 classes to Lansdowne Junior High. Similar relief will come to Toimie and Tillicum schools by transfer of senior grades to S. J. Willis Junior High.

Authorities are still contemplating a shift system at Oaklands, Willows, McKenzie Avenue and George Jay. The full extent of this will not be known, however, until registration is completed and the promotion of pupils decided.

Esquimalt Tot Struck by Truck

A three-year-old Esquimalt boy was taken to Jubilee Hospital in naval ambulance after he was struck by a truck at Lyle and Wychbury Friday night.

John Patrick Roberts, 495 Wychbury, suffered only minor abrasions. He was discharged after X-rays showed no serious injury.

Esquimalt police said a truck driven by Frederick John Lech, 51 Battleford, had been parked in the area and several children had been playing in the vicinity in spite of attempts to chase them away. The youngster collided with the truck as it started up.

Soldier Escapes Furlough in Jail

A soldier who starts his annual leave Monday almost spent his holiday in jail when he pleaded guilty today to driving while impaired by alcohol.

But the army advanced his fine.

Louis Eugene Arseneault, 48 Logan, was charged after a collision at Johnson and Catherine Street Friday night. Police said the accused admitted to drinking six beers and had no recollection of an accident.

Magistrate H. C. Hall imposed a $250 fine with option of 12 days and said he would recommend suspension of Arseneault's license. An army officer present said the fine would be paid after court.

New School Plan Coming If Big Loan Voted Down

The provincial government will be asked to incorporate part of rural Saanich School District 63 with the Greater Victoria school system if a school money by-law is turned down by ratepayers, school trustee George Chatterton said this afternoon.

Ratepayers of District 63 are voting today on the $1,460,000 school by-law.

The by-law, the largest in the history of the school district, is to provide facilities for an anticipated school population increase of 1,000 children during the next five years. Some schools are already short of accommodations.

The school district includes the north part of Saanich, Central Saanich, Sidney and unorganized territory.

PASSAGE DOUBTFUL

Mr. Chatterton, who is also chairman of the money by-law committee, said he is "doubtful" that ratepayers will approve the by-law in view of "conflicting interests" in the school district.

The last time a money by-law was submitted to ratepayers it was only approved by a slim majority of 55 votes. The by-law was only for $600,000. That was in 1950.

Mr. Chatterton said the present school district was unsatisfactory because it was divided between an urban and rural population whose needs differed entirely.

"I understand the problem and the views of the population," he said. "Their interests are not compatible."

NEW ALIGNMENT

He said if the by-law failed he would give serious consideration to the question of incorporating the north part of Saanich, which includes Royal Oak and Cordova Bay with the Greater Victoria school system. Another alternative, he said, was the forming of a separate school district for the municipality of Saanich.

Saanich council has already requested the provincial government to form a separate school district for the municipality on the "grounds that the present system is unfair to some of its taxpayers. The greater part of municipality, the inner section, is linked with Greater Victoria school district 61.

FEW VOTING

Meanwhile, returning officer J. W. Ismay of Central Saanich, reported that voting was light in most schools this morning, but was expected to pick up this afternoon. The polls are located in all the schools of district 63.

The by-law if approved will provide "alterations" and additions to 13 schools, including a new school board office. One of the major projects is a $250,000 addition to North Saanich High School.

There will also be three new schools, each of two rooms, at Swartz Bay, Oldfield Road and Wallace Drive.

McKay Now Heads Vic-Van Isle Club

H. J. McKay has been elected president of the Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen Club.

Elected at the club's annual meeting Friday night, Mr. McKay replaces Ed Bergeron, retiring president.

Also elected were: Gordon McMillan, vice-president; Ken Clarke, secretary; Chick Will, treasurer; and Bob Whysker, registrar.

Appointed to the board of directors were Mel Willie, George Preston and Ted Hamer.

New Naden Commander

Capt. Patrick D. Budge has been appointed commodore of barracks, RCN, Esquimalt, to succeed Commodore Kenneth L. Dyer, who will become assistant chief of naval staff this fall.

Commodore of barracks is the official title given HMCs Naden's commanding officer. It is expected Capt. Budge's promotion will be included in the navy's July list.

Capt. Budge is at present chief of staff to Commodore Kenneth Adams, commodore of naval divisions, Hamilton.

NAVY SHIPS LEAVING FOR SUNNY SOUTH

Four ships of the RCN Pacific Command's training fleet will leave Esquimalt Monday at 9 a.m. on a two-week cruise to California ports.

HMC Ships Ontario, Sioux, New Glasgow and Stettler are scheduled to arrive in San Francisco June 3 for a four-day visit. Ontario and Sioux will continue on to San Diego, spending June 8 to 12 in that port.

The frigates New Glasgow and Stettler will arrive back in Esquimalt June 11, the other ships June 16.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Can you name the "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," as written by Lawrence of Arabia, a masterpiece which changed the course of history?—H. M. S.

A.—Proverbs, Chapter 9, Verse 1, reads: "Wisdom hath builded her house, she hath hewn out her seven pillars." There appears to be no printed matter in the Victoria Public Library indicating clearly what Lawrence had in mind. It was an Old Testament passage which undoubtedly struck his imagination and it is probable he adopted it to apply in a general sense to many of the things he had to tell the world in his book.

Q.—When the owner of an apartment house sells the property, can the new owner raise the rents of the present tenants?—I. N. T.

A.—No, the way is not open for that. If a tenant leaves, the new tenant may pay higher rent, as the new rate is a matter of agreement between him and the new owner.

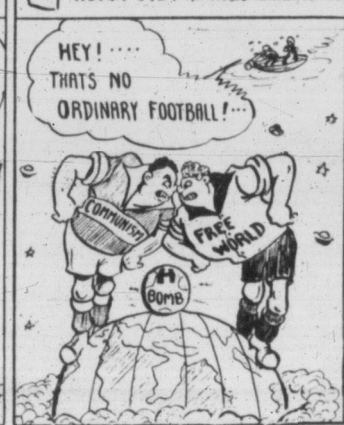

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Sunday School On Wheels Speaker's Topic

Miss Eva Hasell, MBE, of the Sunday School Mission along the Alaska Highway, will give an illustrated address on her work following the evening service Sunday at Christ Church Cathedral.

The lecture will be held in the Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m.

Dean Beattie will preach at the morning service on the first Sunday after Ascension. Rev. Fraser Berry is the evening preacher.

Miss Hasell will also speak at St. John's Hall, Colwood, at 2:30 Monday afternoon.

Special speaker at the morning service in First Baptist tomorrow will be Miss Zena Kidd, who is home on furlough from the Baptist mission field in South India.

Tonight at 8 the Youth for Christ rally at 1415 Blanshard will hear George Smith, who has just returned from Bible college in Ontario. Next week, June 5, Youth for Christ will present the Billy Graham film "Oiltown U.S.A."

Central Baptist Church choir will hold a fireside hour after the evening service Sunday. Dr. Rowell's subject: "Just Two—Which for You?"

Canon Biddle has chosen "The Ascension Story" for his sermon subject at the broadcast service at St. John's Sunday morning at 11.

Miss Marjorie Tunbridge of Japan will occupy the pulpit of Oak Bay United Church Sunday morning.

Rev. B. T. Root, district superintendent, will be heard at a special meeting of the Free Methodist congregation Wednesday evening at 8.

Report on conference will be given by Mr. C. P. Ennals at St. Aidan's United Church at the morning service.

Rev. H. P. Davidson of Langford United Church reports that the congregation has secured a site for a church building. The church currently meets in Belmont High School at 11 a.m.

Victoria nurses will mark the 100th anniversary of Florence Nightingale's landing at Scutari, Crimea, in two church parades Sunday.

Assemblies will be held at First United Church at 10:30 a.m. and at St. Andrew's Cathedral at 8:45 a.m.

Miss E. Riddle, Victorian Order of Nurses, who is in charge, asks all active and inactive nurses to be present if possible.

PRESBYTERIAN UNITY COMES TO VOTE TODAY

AKRON, O. (AP)—The unification vote of three great branches of the Presbyterian Church will be held here this afternoon, and spokesmen freely predict that the vote will carry.

Mr. Albert Kelly of Pittsburgh was unanimously elected Wednesday night as moderator of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, holding its 96th general assembly here. His choice as moderator is seen as virtual assurance that the assembly will assure unification with two other Presbyterian branches—the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America and the Southern Presbyterians.

CAR PAYMENTS ARE NO PROBLEM NOW!

TRANS CANADA CREDIT

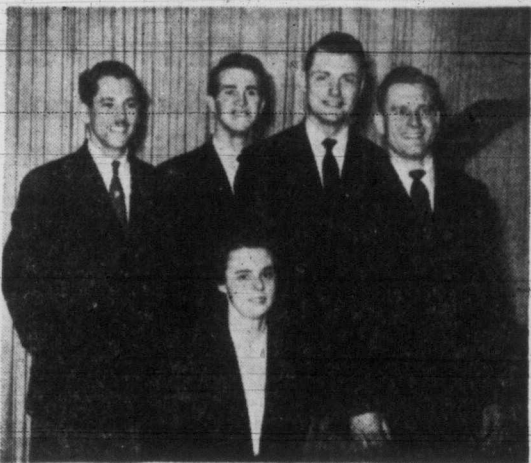

"We're certainly grateful to the friend who suggested that we refinance our car at Trans Canada Credit. They're really helpful there. A courteous adviser quickly arranged a new loan to pay off the old one—and smaller payments were stretched over a 24-month period. All he asked for was proof of ownership—no endorsers were required and we found the rates quite reasonable.

"I'd certainly recommend Trans Canada Credit to anyone who wants to refinance his car at lower payments, over a longer period of time."

If car payments are proving too much for your budget—arrange your re-financing at Trans Canada Credit, now. Just telephone 2-9178, or call in at 618-A Fort Street.

McMaster Quartet To Sing in City

Famed Theological Songsters to Appear
Six Times at City Baptist Churches

City Baptist Churches will welcome the McMaster Quartet to services tomorrow and through next week.

Acclaimed across Canada for its excellent presentation of the gospel story in sacred song, the quartet will sing one number at First Baptist at the 11 o'clock service Sunday and conduct the morning service at Emmanuel Baptist.

Sunday evening, members of the group will conduct the service at Douglas Street Baptist Church, following which they will appear at a fireside hour at First Baptist.

Monday at 8 p.m. the quartet will conduct a youth meeting at Emmanuel Baptist, and Wednesday at 8 p.m. a service of witness at First Baptist.

The McMaster Evangelistic Quartet is on a summer tour, visiting Baptist churches in B.C. and Alberta. The quartet is composed of men training to be ministers and missionaries who will present the challenge of Christ in word and song.

The four men are from four different provinces.

The leader, Gordon Pousett, is married and hails from Vancouver, B.C. After some time in the army and a number of years in a machine shop he is now in his second year of theology.

Calgary's Jack Dayton, the second tenor, graduated from the Baptist Leadership Training School there, and is now in third year in his arts course.

Wait Klaassen, first tenor, comes from Laird, Sask. He is married and is student pastor of the Baptist Church at Hagersville, Ontario. A McMaster grad, he will be beginning his work in theology next term.

Doug Coombs, of Hamilton, Ontario, sings baritone, and is a graduate of Toronto Bible College. Pianist for the group is Mrs. Gordon (Joyce) Pousett, also from Vancouver, who has completed one year's study in the Women's Leadership Training School at McMaster.

NEW CATHEDRAL FOR CALGARY

CALGARY (CP)—A new Roman Catholic cathedral is to be constructed here by St. Mary's parish at a cost of $1,000,000. Most Rev. Francis P. Carroll, Bishop of Calgary, says it will seat 1,100 persons, making it the city's largest church.

Many Attend Ascension Day Evensong

The annual Ascension Day festival evensong brought a large congregation to Christ Church Cathedral Thursday evening. Clergy and members from all parishes of the Victoria rural deanery shared in the devotion. The sermon, was preached by Very Rev. Northcote Burke, who was making his second visit here since he became dean and rector of Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver. The benediction was pronounced by Bishop H. R. Ragg.

Ascension Day each year provides an opportunity for members of all congregations in and about this city to assemble in the mother church of the diocese for the last great service of the Easter cycle, leading up to the feast of Whitsunday, which this year falls on June 6. For the only time in many years Archbishop Sexton was not present last night, as he is at present in England.

United Church Women Raise $1.2 Million

TORONTO (CP)—Woman's Missionary Society of United Church of Canada raised $1,161,222 last year, an increase of $17,432 over 1952.

Mrs. J. R. Seaman, treasurer of the Dominion board of the society, announced the figures and also reported at Thursday's sessions of the annual meeting that expenditures totaled $1,073,318, an increase of $42,726 over the previous year.

VLA Regulations Relaxed by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Friday announced a relaxation of regulations dealing with the Veterans' Land Act.

Veterans will have until January 1, 1960, instead of January 1, 1957, to repay their re-establishment credits if they want to settle under VLA.

This would mean that a veteran who, for example, bought furniture with his re-establishment credit, would have until 1960 to repay that sum to the veterans' affairs department if he wanted to take advantage of VLA to settle on a farm or small holding.

The announcement was made in the Commons veterans affairs committee by Colin Bennett, parliamentary assistant to Veterans Affairs Minister LaPointe.

'Papa Santo' Proclaimed New Saint

Beloved Pope
Elevated Today

By ROBERT E. JACKSON

VATICAN CITY (UP)—A village postman's son who rose to become a greatly beloved Pope was proclaimed a saint of the Roman Catholic Church today.

Pope Pius XII announced the elevation of Pope Pius X to sainthood, in the presence of a crowd massed in the great square in front of St. Peter's Church.

Even before his death, brokenhearted, in 1914 when the First World War engulfed Europe, Pius X was being called saint. His simplicity, his modesty, his devotion endeared him to churchmen and laymen alike.

TWO MIRACLES

He was made a saint on the basis of two miracles officially attested after a long inquiry.

The first occurred in Naples on the night of Aug. 26, 1951. Francesco Belsani, a lawyer, suffering from a dangerous lung abscess, offered prayers to Pius X. His physician said the abscess was cured at once.

The second occurred when Maria Ludovica Scorgia, a nun, prayed to Pius X for aid against an attack of meningitis on May 14, 1952, and was cured.

"Papa Santo" was born in the village of Riese on June 2, 1835, as Giuseppe Sartor. Sartor means tailor. When people used to call him "Pio Santo" (St. Pius) in later life, he would say: "I'm not a saint, I am a tailor."

"He used to say he never was so happy as when he had been a parish priest. When Pope Leo XII made him a bishop in 1884, he wrote protesting that he was unworthy, and urged that another man be named. He became a cardinal in 1893 and was elected Pope in 1903. Again, he pleaded tearfully that he was unworthy."

DIED IN 1914

Pius X lived but 17 days after the First World War broke out. He died on Aug. 20, 1914.

In today's ceremony, Pope Pius XII was borne in his ceremonial chair to the steps of St. Peter's in a colorful procession.

Seated on a golden throne he announced:

"For the honor of the Holy Trinity, for the exaltation of the Catholic faith and for the growth of the Christian religion, by authority of our Lord Jesus Christ, of the blessed apostles Peter and Paul, and by our own authority, we decree and define saint, and inscribe in the book of saints, the blessed Pius the Tenth."

Silver trumpets, and the pealing bells of St. Peter's and churches throughout Rome, proclaimed the elevation of the new saint.

The first telegraph messages in Canada were exchanged between Toronto and Hamilton in 1846.

29% Growth in 4 Years Brings SDA Near Million

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—

The quadrennial conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, a meeting many members predict may be the last "due to the imminent end of the world," has elected Reuben Richard Figuhr as new world president of the church.

Elder Figuhr, whose headquarters are in Washington, D.C., succeeds elder William H. Branson as head of the Adventist Church, now established in 177 countries. Branson retired as president due to ill health.

Figuhr has been an international vice-president of the church since 1950.

Elder Branson disclosed that Seventh-Day Adventists during the past four years contributed $72,866,639 for the work of the church throughout the world.

Addressing delegates from 108 nations at the Civic Auditorium, Branson reported the building of some 2,000 church structures since the last quadrennial meeting and an increase of 29 per cent in church membership which is now nearing the million mark.

Branson said that the expanding work of the church has now reached into 197 countries with new schools, hospitals and churches being established each year.

The meetings will continue through June 5 with an average of 8,000 laymen and ministers attending the sessions each day. A peak attendance of 25,000 is predicted for week-ends.

Annual Decorated Table Display

Sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital, the annual decorated table display will be held this year in the Nurses' Home on Wednesday afternoon, June 2. Proceeds will be used for auxiliary projects in connection with the hospital, such as the decorating and furnishing of the new wing in the psychiatric department.

Arranged By ELIZABETH FORBES
Women's Editor

Ticket conveners are Mrs. K. L. Boorman, seated, and Miss Marianne Fraser. Judging of entries in the decorated table display will be by popular vote. Of special interest will be the mantel in the lounge at the Nurses' Home, where the display is to be held. It will be decorated by The Butchart Gardens.

In charge of the many entries for the decorated table display are Mrs. J. H. Todd, left, and Mrs. C. E. Brown, right. Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, second from left, is general convener of the project, and Mrs. G. Simpson, the co-convener. Entry classes include formal and informal table arrangements, pedestals and small screen displays.

Mrs. J. A. Burchett, centre, did the interior decorating in the new psychiatric ward. Miss Margaret Roberts, RN, at the right, is supervisor of the new department, and Mrs. J. M. Chute, OT Reg., a graduate of University of Toronto, the new occupational therapist. (Photos by Bill Halkett.)

Auxiliary Adds 'Extra Touch' to Furnishings

The decorating and furnishing of the new wing in the psychiatric department of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, which has been the undertaking of the junior auxiliary of the hospital, has now been completed and is looked upon with pride and satisfaction by both staff and patients alike.

It is in order to raise funds for such projects connected with the hospital that the auxiliary will hold its annual decorated tables display in the Nurses' Home on Wednesday, June 2. Part of the proceeds will be devoted to furthering the improvements to the psychiatric ward.

The new addition includes a commodious sunroom, which in common with the recreation room, the occupational therapy department and doctors' clinic, all furnished by the auxiliary, bear no mark of the traditional institutional atmosphere. The sunroom walls are in a petal pink shade, with Jamaica rose, a deeper tone, used in the ceiling and the broadloom rug. The draw curtains are of a beautiful floral design on Sanderson print in shades of soft blue and rose, while the easy chairs are upholstered in soft blue.

Tables, bookcase, writing desk and other furniture are of bleached beech, and a harmonizing flower picture on the wall further carries out the color scheme. The heavy pottery vases were all made by Mrs. J. A. Burchett, a member of the auxiliary, who was given full responsibility for the planning, choosing and arranging of the interior decorating.

The doctors' clinic has been decorated in tones of brown, beige and deep rust, while the recreation room, equipped for table tennis, television, card games and other activities, together with a piano, provides the patients with complete comfort and relaxation.

For the patients still undergoing treatment there is the new occupational therapy department, in charge of Mrs. J. M. Chute, who assumed her new duties at the clinic on April 1. An essential factor in the treatment and cure of the patients, handicrafts of all types are available and are being taught by Mrs. Chute, who expressed the keenest appreciation of the commodious storage space and equipment, which is now at her disposal.

In speaking of the completion of the addition, Miss Margaret Roberts, RN, supervisor, said that it was the culmination of a dream of many years, and she paid great tribute to the auxiliary in general and to Mrs. Burchett in particular for their vision in transforming the dream into a reality by undertaking the decorating. Capacity of the psychiatric clinic has now been doubled, and according to the hospital administrator, George Masters, is in every sense as up-to-date and complete as any clinic of its size in Canada.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple

A twilight ceremony in Centennial United Church, Friday, united in marriage Grace Patricia Dyson, youngest daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. O. W. Dyson, 3170 Millgrove Street, with Wilfred Doerges, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Doerges, Garden Street, Duncan, B.C.

The double-ring service was performed in a floral setting of lilacs, irises and yellow tulips by Rev. Douglas B. Carr.

Mrs. M. Wilmshurst played wedding music and John Dyson, brother of the bride, Ray Doerges, brother of the groom, and James Gallant ushered guests to pews marked with clusters of pansies and forget-me-nots.

Entering the church with her father, the bride was radiant in a full-length gown of white satin with double net overskirts encircled by a wide band of lace insertion. The bodice was of white lace, featuring a Peter Pan collar embroidered with pearls, and lily-point sleeves. A finger-tip veil of illusion net, misted from a bead and pearl-encrusted coronet. Her only ornament was an antique pendant of aquamarine and small pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Her sister, Mrs. James Gallant, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length model in blue-satin with off-shoulder neckline, topped with a matching bolero. Blue mitts, a shoulder-length veil held by a matching coronet and bouquet of roses completed her ensemble. Bridesmaids Miss Dorothy Doerges, sister of the groom, in blue, Miss Barbara Pearson and Miss Ann Budynski in yellow, wore gowns similarly styled. Flower girl was the bride's niece, Miss Sharon Gallant, dressed in a crinolined frock of pink taffeta with blue velvet sash. Pink roses formed her headpiece and colonial bouquet. Hugh Burkmar was best man.

Wedding bells, flowers and streamers decorated Hampton Hall where the reception was held. Toast to the bride was proposed by William Crooks. Three-tier cake in a bed of tulle sprinkled with red roses, was flanked by candles in silver holders.

For a honeymoon to be spent on the mainland, the bride traveled in a blue suit with red accessories, white feather hat and red rose corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Doerges will make their home on Cordova Bay Road.

August Chosen as Their Wedding Month

The engagement is announced this week-end of Miss Violet M. McConaghy, daughter of Mrs. Katherine McConaghy, 3415 Richmond Road, and the late Robert A. McConaghy, CE, MASCE, and Mr. Stanley A. Perkins, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Perkins, St. Clements, Jersey Channel Islands. The wedding will take place on Aug. 7, at 3 p.m., in St. John's Anglican Church. Miss Nina Greig, Corvallis, Ore., will be Miss McConaghy's only attendant, and the best man will be Mr. Stanley Taylor, Vancouver. (Photos by Goertz.)

Pink and White Wedding for Shirley Ann Hallors

Delicate pink and white of spring blossoms was theme for the wedding this afternoon of Shirley Ann, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ellis Hallors, 2350 Nottingham Road, to Dr. John Henry McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgerton McLean of Barrie, Ont.

Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn conducted the ceremony which took place in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, where altar and chancel were beautifully decorated with flowers in pink and white shades. James Gerry played traditional music and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a gown of white lace over pale pink taffeta, the bodice slimly fitted above a bouffant ballerina-length skirt. A tiny jacket with three-quarter sleeves and softly rolled collar completed the ensemble; a bridal head-dress of white illusion net and pearls held the chapel veil and she carried pale pink rapture roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Sister of the bride, Lorna Mae Hallors, was her sole attendant. Pink nylon sheer over matching taffeta fashioned her ballerina-length gown. It was styled with cap sleeves and a softly gathered bodice. She wore a bandeau of pink flowers, pink shoes, and carried rose Virginia carnations. Stuart Crawford of Great Central Lake was the groom's best man and John Egan acted as usher.

Home of Dr. and Mrs. Hallors was massed with spring flowers for the reception following the wedding, when Mrs. Hallors received guests, wearing a soft blue shantung two-piece dress with navy and white accessories and gardenia corsage. The groom's mother wore dark blue lace and crepe with navy accessories and gardenia corsage. A three-tiered cake decorated with silver leaves and pink roses centred the bridal table and serviteurs were Mrs. Stuart Crawford, sister of the bride, Miss Diane Heaney and Miss Dana Thompson. Toast to the bride was proposed by Donald Duff.

For a motoring honeymoon to Portland, Mrs. McLean changed to a grey suit, with which she wore a grey and white plaid stole, white accessories and corsage of garnet roses and lily-of-the-valley. On their return they will make their home at 1759 Rockland Avenue.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Buy Pixie Play Outfits
For Style-Conscious Juniors

By PENNY SAVER

Little girls like to look pretty, even when they're at play. With lots of warm weather in the offing (we hope) there'll be many play hours ahead.

How about it, mother? Is your little girl the owner of attractive summer play togs? I'm not hinting that you should spend a lot of money on foolish, impractical play clothes. But I do think that, as you'll probably be buying her a few things anyway, you might as well get something different.

My suggestion is a pixie play suit. To prove to you that they are practical, I'm going to tell you right now that these suits are made of best quality, sanforized cotton drill. There! Can I go on?

Okay, first of all, the pants. They are pedal-pusher length and they have stylish slits with rounded edges at the bottoms, to carry out the pixie idea. They are black in color and have three bright pockets, one above the other, in tangerine, turquoise and yellow, one of each. Try to picture those colors on black and I'll bet you'll be impressed! The pants cost $2.98.

The blouses, of bright tangerine shade to match one of the pockets on the pants, have wing-tabs on the collar and cuffs of the short sleeves. They also feature a perky bow tie... also $2.98.

You can buy shorts, made like the pants, for $1.98.

Once before I told you about traveling clothes brushes with leather backs which unzipped to reveal a complete manicure set or sewing kit... your choice. Do you remember? Well now, the same things only a little smaller (a good point, when it comes to traveling) are available at just half the price... $2.45.

AS WE LIVE

It's Foolish to Snub
Next-Door Neighbor

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

It is very foolish to be on bad terms with a neighbor. That is the advice I am giving the woman who writes:

(Q) "I have a next-door neighbor and we don't speak. When she first moved in next door to me, I did speak to her. At first, she would be in my house three or four times a day. We had a fight and I told her not to bother me. I don't care to speak to her, as she isn't a nice woman. When she sees me now she sings or whistles, but doesn't speak. I feel like talking back to her or saying things to her, but I keep my temper down. No one bothers with her and she doesn't bother with them. She has her daughter and son-in-law living with her and those are the only people she sees. She has caused me plenty of trouble. What should I do?"

(A) If your neighbor does nothing more serious than to sing and whistle when you see her, I do not see how you have any real cause for complaint. She has a perfect right to sing and whistle on her own property.

I think you were very foolish to make an enemy of your next-door neighbor. You would not have to be close friends if you had nothing in common. But you could at least be polite and friendly when you meet.

It is annoying to have a person drop in to chat several times a day when you are busy. However, if you had handled the matter with more tact, you would not have offended her to the point where she might want to get even.

It is only common courtesy to speak to a person you know. You do not have to stop and chat, but you can at least say "Good morning" or "Good afternoon" when you see her. Start at once, even if she does not reply. You will be doing the right thing, even if she is not.

Enemies in neighbors are bad. It not only creates uncomfortable positions for both families; you never know when some emergency may arise when you would find it very useful to have someone on whom you could call for help.

TO TORONTO
'EASY HIKE'

TORONTO (CP) — A 63-year-old Toronto woman finished her annual birthday hike on schedule last Monday night—a mile for every year.

Mrs. Brandt Johnston started her walk to Toronto from near Brantford, Ont., Sunday morning, at a four-mile-an-hour clip.

She offered $25 to anyone who saw her show signs of quitting and challenged Toronto's entire female population to accompany her. There were no takers.

"I think the women of Toronto are just a bunch of sissies," she said. "I was peppy all the way. I hope to do it again next year if I can—it keeps my figure in good shape."

TODAY'S RECIPE

ONION SHORTCAKE

Six medium sized onions, sliced, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons fat, ½ cup grated Cheddar cheese, soft biscuit dough (using 2 cups flour), ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 cup medium white sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains nutmeg, 1 egg.

Peel and slice onions and sprinkle with ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir the grated cheese into the dry ingredients of the biscuit dough before adding the liquid.

Spread dough in a greased 10-inch square pan. Cover with the raw onion slices and sprinkle with paprika and chopped parsley.

To the white sauce add salt, nutmeg and slightly beaten egg. Pour over the onions. Bake in a hot oven, 425° F., for 40 to 50 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Bridal lingerie should be youthful and gay. Shown left, a gown in popular dress length, of nylon tricot. In hibiscus, pink or surf green, it has tiny cap sleeves with nylon net and rosebud trim. For the bride who prefers the traditional, there's a full-length gown and robe, right, in chiffon sheer nylon tricot. Flowing fullness starts from straight yoke at back. Both models are made in bridal white as well as pastels.

By KITTY DIXON

Outstanding in this season's collections of bridal lingerie is the dress-length gown and robe fashioned with all the traditional elegance, formerly reserved for only the full-length ensembles.

Thus, the dress-length gown displays an elaborate lace top and very full, pleated skirt, both in creamy beige. Or a gown and robe in the palest blue may be given trimmed of lace, shining corded satin or seashell pleating.

Color has become an established fact for bridal lingerie. Where once only bridal white was worn, now a whole rainbow of colors is possible. Some of the colors are vivid, reminiscent of the shimmering blues and greens of the tropics.

Women generally are sold on the beauty and easy upkeep of nylon in lingerie. But this year, the bride should include some of the new permanently pleated cottons, sheer cottons and dacron-and-cotton mixtures in her trousseau. These will serve throughout the summer, rotated with the nylon gowns and robes.

If a bride has one color theme for her trousseau, it should be extended to at least a part of her bridal lingerie. Also, the bridal lingerie should be tried on under the suit or dress with which it will be worn, to make sure that the lines are harmonious. Silhouette coordination is important to every woman but particularly to the bride who wants to look her best.

Wedding Etiquette

If your wedding is formal or semi-formal, invitations should be engraved on double-fold white or cream paper of the best quality, enclosed in two envelopes and issued in the name of your parents—even though they live in a distant city and cannot attend. The message should be properly spaced on 10 lines. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Turner request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Helen Elaine, to Mr. Stewart Fletcher on Friday, April 30, the sixth, nineteen hundred and fifty-three, at eight o'clock, Saint John's Anglican Church. The place of reception is given in the left hand corner on two lines; and afterward, Twelve Royal Road. In Canada, RSVP in rarely used on a wedding invitation.

Notice that the word, honour, is always spelled in the old way. The phrase "honour of your presence" is used for invitations to a church ceremony and "the pleasure of your company" for a home wedding. The date may also be written "the fifth of April" or "the fifth day of April." The street number "Twelve" is written out because it is short but numerals would be used for a longer number.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Improper Health Habits
May Cause Eye Circles

Circles underneath the eyes are a source of discontent to many women. Sometimes these are very dark. In many cases these seem to be inherited since many members of the same family have them.

However, there are other causes. Poor health or malnutrition or extreme underweight or too little sleep or disease can lead to circles. Generally they come from poor health habits in diet and relaxation and sleep. If this is the case, a change to a more hygienic daily routine will usually banish them if given time.

Puffs under and above the eyes can come from disease and should always be investigated. If these appear you should have a physical checkup, although these puffs, too, can be due to poor health habits. Sometimes allergies cause the trouble.

If you have deep circles or puffs you should have a physical examination. If you find that nothing is wrong, then look to your health care.

Lines under the eyes and at the corners of the eyes are two of the first signs of aging.

There is not much padding under the skin in this area, and we squint when we laugh or talk animatedly, look into the bright sunlight, or feel tense.

Much can be done to minimize these. Even when the skin in general has an eye cream. This can be patted about the eyes at night before going to sleep. As you know, the natural oils in the skin decrease as we grow older.

It is not wise to rub the cream in over or underneath the eyes. Patting is the better technique. However, you can rub along the lines at the corners of the eyes, using a fingertip in a rotary motion. Apply your cream first and then move your fingertip along the line in a rotary motion, but gently. If you will follow this routine faithfully every night, you will soon see that you have smoothed out the lines a lot.

If you would like to have my facial exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9, "Facial Exercises," to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Young-Oxland
Wedding Vows

This afternoon, in Metropolitan Church, Dr. F. E. H. James heard the marriage vows of Olive Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Oxland, 155 Linden Avenue, and Dr. Somerville Bruce Young, MD, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Young of Winnipeg.

Pale yellow and white flowers were used to create a wedding setting. Mr. Oxland gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a gown of white nylon lace and net, the very full ballerina-length skirt featuring fine pleating and the strapless bodice topped with a lace jacket with small high collar and long sleeves. Her fingertip nylon net veil was held with a coronet of pearls and the cascade bouquet was of Tallman roses and stephanotis.

Miss Daphne Oxland, a sister of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a turquoise nylon net gown, ballerina length, with attached stole, a small matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of peach-toned gladioli and stephanotis. Dr. R. Ellis was the best man.

A reception was held at Chalet Matterhorn at Mount Douglas, where William Tracey proposed the toast to the bride. For traveling on honeymoon to Port Angeles, the bride wore a cinnamon-toned ensemble with matching accessories and a Tallman rosebud corsage.

Dr. and Mrs. Young will live in New Westminster for the present.

Some think Heaven way up in the sky.

A lot of other stories we have been told.

'Tis a beautiful story, a heavenly hope.

To all except those, at the end of their rope.

Thru some misfortune they couldn't foresee.

That could happen to you, & happen to me.

Gone is their money, health and mirth.

They need Heaven N-O-W, while still on this earth.

And lift them out of the mess & mire.

And find them Heaven, on Cedar Hill Road.

A sweet little place to spend their hours.

Where the skylarks sing, sunshine & flowers.

NOT an Old Folks Home, where you sit & silt.

But "The Village," as the guests have happily named it.

Is Eddie Mallek, who sells you your clothes.

"Tell the folks, Maurice," he said to me.

"We KNOW they're besieged, with many a plea.

Our one-hour Blitz, a howling success."

"O.K.," I said. "Ed, I'll bat out a poem."

HEAVEN... "THE VILLAGE" and HOME SWEET HOME.

Summer Daisies in Floral Theme; Seven Attendants Precede Bride

A floral theme of daisies prevailed at the Friday evening wedding of Bernice Thelma Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Osborne, 3611 Tillecum Road, and Sub-Lieut. David Alexander Elix, HMCS "Ontario," son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Elix, Windsor, Ont.

Clusters of daisies marked the pews in St. John's Anglican Church and white gladioli were placed on the altar, Canon George Biddle officiated. The lovely, fair-haired bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditionally white nylon marquisette in full length, the bouffant skirt trimmed with rows of applied daisies. The shirred bodice was covered with a marquisette shrug jacket appliqued with the same flowers. A headpiece of daisies held the fingertip veil of illusion net, trimmed with lace in lily of the valley design. Her jewelry, a rhinestone necklace and bracelet, were gifts of the groom. "She carried a bouquet of red roses and white gladioli with trailing daisies."

Matron of honor, Mrs. Doris Crooks, and bridesmaid, Miss Violet Agnes Elix, sister of the groom, wore identical gowns of pink pleated lace and nylon tulle over taffeta in ballerina length, with boat necklines of the tulle sprinkled with rhinestones. They wore headpieces of daisies which swooped to the right side and carried cascading bouquets of the same flowers. Bridesmaids, Miss Jinx Le Blanc and Miss Pat Richardson, wore identical dresses in blue and had the same headpieces and bouquets.

Junior bridesmaids, Miss Georgia Osborne, sister of the bride, and Miss Judy Lavigne, were gown in turquoise nylon net over satin with ruffled net necklines. They had bandeaux of daisies in their hair and carried small cluster bouquets of the same flowers.

Quiet Wedding At St. Luke's

Janet Macgregor, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Macgregor, Fleet, Hampshire, England, became the bride today at 2:30 of Eric M. McCaul, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McCaul, Ten Mile Point.

Vows were exchanged at a quiet ceremony at St. Luke's Church, Cedar Hill, Canon Frederick Pike officiating.

Wearing a gown of white net and lace with a full, ballerina length skirt and a white hat, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Col. P. T. Sealey. Best man was Mark de Goutier and ushers were brother of the groom, Ian McCaul, and Robin Hooper.

A reception at the home of the groom's parents, 2810 Tudor Avenue, followed the ceremony. A toast was proposed by A. J. Marlow, and special guests attending from out of town were Major and Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. J. Sloan, Col. and Mrs. P. T. Sealey and Mrs. S. Hassell, all of Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Moir of Cheamainus, Miss Barbara McCaul and Miss Jean Mercer of Vancouver.

The young couple left for a motoring honeymoon on the mainland, Mrs. McCaul wearing a blue dress topped with a pink coat. They will make their future home in Victoria.

Amber Kilshaw, Sub-Lieut. Massie United in Naval Wedding Today

Marriage vows were spoken this afternoon in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, between Amber Carolyn Kilshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gradwell Kilshaw, 3143 Admirals Road, and Sub-Lieut. Bruce Alexander Massie, RCN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Massie, Toronto, Ont.

A picture of classic beauty, the bride, gown in traditionally white nylon lace, entered the church on the arm of her father.

The crinolined ballerina-length skirt of her gown flared out in butterfly pleats from the slim waistline of the fitted bodice. Neckline was slightly off-shoulder. A Juliet cap, encrusted with tiny seed pearls held her elbow-length veil of net illusion edged with lace, and she carried a cascading bouquet of pink Rapture roses, lily of the valley and maiden-hair fern.

Spring flowers were placed at the altar for the ceremony performed by Rev. J. A. Roberts.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Kilshaw wore a ballerina-length gown of fine white nylon lace over shell pink taffeta, topped with matching jacket. Her headpiece was a crown of pink starburst net covered with lily-of-the-valley and she carried a bouquet of blush pink carnations and lily-of-the-valley in cascade design.

Sub-Lieut. Frank Bayfield Davies was best man. Ushers were Sub-Lieut. Robert Dougan and Sub-Lieut. Joseph Gallant. Oak Bay Beach Hotel lounge was a profusion of spring flowers for the reception, where parents of the newly-weds assisted in receiving guests, Mrs. Kilshaw, wearing a two-piece champagne linen dress, black FO R. D. Kilshaw, brother of the bride, proposed the toast. The three-tier wedding cake was topped by a nautical motif and tiny pink rosebuds.

For traveling, Up-Island on honeymoon, then east to Toronto and Halifax, Mrs. Massie donned a white linen sheath dress, white hat, gloves and handbag and duster coat of tomato red linen. She wore a gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Massie will make their home temporarily at Halifax.

Watson-Macfarlane Vows Heard in Morning Service

A prayer book, mounted with yellow rosebuds and lily of the valley, was carried by Mary Isabel Macfarlane, daughter of Mrs. C. Macfarlane, 1534 Redfern Street, when she became the bride of Gordon Thomas Watson, son of Mrs. B. Watson, 3371 School Avenue, Vancouver, in a morning ceremony at Our Lady of Lourdes Church today.

The bride's gown of slipper satin and lace featured seed pearl trimming and long, lily point sleeves. Father M. McNamara officiated. The church was decorated with arrangements of peonies and stocks. Brother of the bride, J. W. Macfarlane, gave her in marriage.

Attendants, Miss Rose McLaughlin and Miss Dorothy

Leard, cousin of the bride, wore yellow rosebuds and lily of the valley, and lavender shades, respectively. They carried colonial bouquets of carnations.

A wedding breakfast was held at OES Hall, Redfern Street, where sweet peas and lily of the valley formed floral decorations. Father McNamara proposed the toast to the bride. Mother of the bride wore a mauve dress and corsage of yellow carnations, and mother of the groom wore a dusky rose dress and corsage of pink carnations.

The couple left for a honeymoon to Waterton Lakes, Alta. Mrs. Watson traveling in a blue dress with black accessories. They plan to live in Vancouver.

Married Women Rate Higher

MONTREAL (CP) — Wives and mothers are better employees and are more contented in their jobs than single women, Dr. Ralph C. Collins of Rochester, N.Y., chairman of the American Psychiatric Association's committee on industrial psychiatry, said Thursday.

Married women derive great job satisfaction from the feeling that they are supplementing the family income, Dr. Collins said in an interview. They had less nervous, less psychosomatic illness and usually less absenteeism than other workers.

He said women seem to thrive on doing both housework and an office or industrial job. "Men who try to do two jobs by taking additional work after regular office hours are usually no good in either place but the average woman is a better worker when she's handling two jobs," he said.

INDIAN COUPLE RE-WED TODAY

A wedding ceremony in the East Saanich Catholic Mission Church at 10 a.m. this morning united Miss Molly Claxton and Harry Underwood, a couple who were married last week in an Indian tribal ceremony. Emmanuel Cooper was best man and bridesmatron was his wife, Gloria. Flower girl was Miss Virginia Pelkey. Father Irvine Le Clerc officiated.

Resale Price Ban Attacked; Causes Chaos in Retailing

MONTREAL, Que. (CP)—T. G. Burton of Toronto said Friday the ban on resale price maintenance, which stops a manufacturer from setting a resale price on his product, "is causing unnecessary chaos in a large section of responsible and dependable retailers."

Mr. Burton, president of Simpsons Ltd., and Simpson-Sears Ltd., said in an address to the Canadian Life Insurance Officers' Association that his companies are not affected to any great extent because of development of its own brands.

"Nevertheless, it is a most serious threat to thousands of legitimate small retailers who are really the backbone of the distribution system, as far as manufacturers of nationally-advertised lines are concerned. "These manufacturers should know, if they do not already, that these dealers are in real danger of being forced out of business."

"It is my opinion that there should not be any legislation one way or the other, but that each manufacturer, provided there is competition between manufacturers, should be able in a free economy to say to whom he will sell and under what conditions."

"Today, I believe there is plenty of competition among manufacturers of consumer goods, and it is ridiculous to say that any manufacturer can set a resale price at a figure that is obviously not competitive."

WEEK IN U.S.

Seasonal Dips Devitalized By Bright Outlook

BY WALTER BREEDER, JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—The last week in May saw a moderate decline in several key lines of United States business.

The dips arose chiefly from seasonal and other temporary factors. Business sentiment continued optimistic. Most of the long-term indicators still pointed up.

Auto production was off 5 1/2 per cent from the previous week, chiefly because the pace-setting "Big Three" scheduled no work today because of the Memorial Day Holiday on Monday.

The ding-dong production battle between Chevrolet and Ford will continue in June. The big sales push is getting underway. Best guess is, however, that stocks of unsold new cars will continue at or near record levels through August and possibly September.

Retail trade inched lower again during the week. Merchants tried promotions, bargain prices, night shopping and easy credit, but chill, damp weather over wide areas of the country kept the customers away.

SALES DOWN 3%

So far this year, department store sales have been running about 3 per cent behind the corresponding period of 1953.

The abundance of loan and investment funds was pointed up when the U.S. treasury reported on the sale of its latest issue of 91-day bills. These sold at a discount equal to an interest rate of 0.78 per cent—the lowest in nearly seven years.

Steelmakers look for good business this year, with no drastic change either way in the current level of production. That was the word at the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute here.

BEST IN 24 YEARS

Optimistic talk at the steel meeting sparked a mid-week rise in stock prices that carried the market to new 24-year highs.

There was optimistic talk, too, at the annual meeting of the world's biggest oil corporation, M. J. Rathbone, president, predicted sales of Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) would set a new record this year and Jersey Standard's earnings, he said, will be "as good as they were in 1953 and probably a little better."

The annual meeting of the New York Central Railroad left undecided the issue of future control of the $2,500,000,000 system. Counting of proxies was expected to continue through Memorial Day.

Freight carloadings in the latest week for which figures are available were the highest since Nov. 21.

Illustrated Talk By Parks Expert

Parks division head, D. MacMurchie, of the B.C. Forest Service branch, will be guest speaker at the regular meeting of Victoria North Kiwanis Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. in the Monterey. He will illustrate a talk on provincial parks with pictures.

Billion-Ton Iron Ore Discovery Claimed for Northern Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Provincial mines department officials said today they could not confirm reports that a billion-ton iron ore deposit has been discovered in the Peace River district north of here by a Calgary prospecting syndicate.

The Calgary Herald quoted an unidentified spokesman for the syndicate as saying the discovery "may well mean the beginning of the heavy industrial age of western Canada."

The Herald said the syndicate claimed a core-drilling program which was undertaken early this year had proved an ore body of 1,000,000,000 tons.

The Herald said the discovery was made 60 miles northwest of the town of Peace River. Natural gas, which would be used for concentra-

BCE to Look Again At Cedar Hill Plan

Will Seek New Site for $1 Million Power Station Protested by Residents

The B.C. Electric Company may drop its plan to erect a $1,000,000 power sub-station in the Cedar Hill district, a company official said today.

Efforts will be made to find another site, it was stated.

The company's action follows strong protests from Cedar Hill residents against the construction of the sub-station on Ophir Street near Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Residents claim the sub-station would bring devaluation of nearby properties, spoil the residential district and create a hazard for children.

The sub-station is planned to give Gordon Head improved service and to meet future requirements of the fast-growing district.

The company spokesman said

Women Workers Top Jobless List

There are more jobless women in Victoria than is usual during this season, C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service office, acknowledged today.

However, the number of men out of work here is considered "very close to normal for this time of year."

There are vacancies for junior stenographers, waitresses for shift work, and domestic help. There are also jobs open for experienced shirt-press operators and qualified fur finishers.

Although there has been some improvement in building activity, construction workers still constitute one of the largest single blocks of unemployed tradesmen. More woodmen have been able to find employment in recent weeks. Chokermen and boommen are reported to be in short supply.

Vickers' Profits Higher

MONTREAL (CP)—Annual report of Canadian Vickers Ltd., for the year ended Feb. 28, 1954, shows consolidated net profit of $2,454,832.43 against $1,516,470.24, in 1953.

B.C. READY TO TRADE?

Rights for Roads Seen Base of 'Deal'

By TOM GOULD
Times Legislative Reporter

An unprecedented "deal" between the provincial government and B.C.'s three largest lumber firms is rumored as the answer to the west coast of Vancouver Island's road problems.

Unconfirmed reports today said Premier Bennett and Lands and Forest Minister R. E. Somers are negotiating with the lumber giants to exchange forest management licenses for modern roads.

The development, according to the reports, would see the rapid development of timber areas in the southwest corner of the island and construction of a $30,000,000 pulp mill in the Alberni Valley.

Premier Bennett hinted that such a proposal is in the planning stages during a speech at Alberni Thursday night, but refused to give details.

McMillan and Bloedel, Alaska Pine and B.C. Forest Products are three firms mentioned in connection with the proposal. In return for a perpetual supply of timber, they would undertake to construct truck logging roads to highway standards.

The modern roads would be available to the public on an unrestricted basis, and would provide a valuable network of communication lines to the west coast.

The provincial government would undertake to share road-building costs with the firms, if the proposal is accepted. Several years of study and negotiation would be required before the deal is finalized.

Many government officials, however, are skeptical of the proposal at this stage. They say it is not yet a "possibility," but rather a "thought."

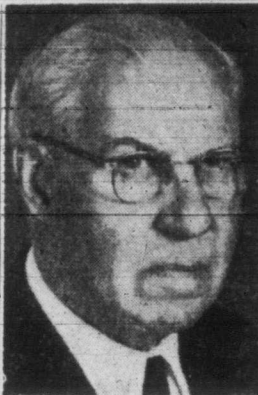

The deal is being considered by the provincial government, which has been discovered underlying the ore body, the paper said.

The presence of the iron ore was first revealed in cuttings from wildcat oil and gas tests, it added.

PITTSBURGH OF CANADA
The Herald quoted the syndicate spokesman as saying: "With a commercial iron ore discovery at its back door, Edmonton could well become the 'Pittsburgh' of the whole northwestern North American continent."

Small traces of iron have been found previously in Alberta but never in commercial quantities. Four prospecting permits for the area were issued by the provincial government early this year.

The Herald said the ore body

MARKETS REVIEW

Fast Rebound Sends Shares To New Highs

By GEORGE LINTON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock prices continued to climb on the continent's three biggest exchanges this week.

There were setbacks when the New York, Toronto and Montreal exchanges were hit by sell-offs, but many issues touched 1954 highs on the rebound.

At New York, The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the week at $125.50, highest since April 10, 1930.

The heaviest trading in more than two months occurred on the Toronto exchange Wednesday. Biggest gainers were senior base metals, on news that the price of zinc had been increased one-quarter of a cent a pound—an estimated yearly gain of almost $2,000,000 for Canadian zinc producers.

More good news for base metal investors came Thursday with reports that the United States will, in effect, put props under the prices of many base metals through revision of stockpiling goals. Leaders in the climb were Consolidated Smelters, Noranda, Noranda and Waite Amulet, all touching 1954 highs during Thursday's session.

GOLDS SLIGHTLY LOWER

Western oils made small gains on the week after zig-zagging through narrow ranges each session. Consolidated Mac, a big gainer the week before on news of an Alberta oil discovery, dropped $1.20 during the week.

Golds were lightly traded and ended the week slightly lower. The Friday-to-Friday indices: Industrials up .37 at 347.83, golds down .24 to 71.83, base metals up 2.67 at 151.78, and western oils up .72 at 96.81.

At New York, the market began the week lower but climbed sharply Wednesday with strength in steels, motors and aircrafts. Prices fell off Thursday but the whole market picked up Friday.

At Montreal, prices advanced until Friday, when they became irregular. The Friday-to-Friday averages: Banks up 1.24 at 40.80, utilities up .05 at 106.8, industrials up 1.09 at 207.8, combined up 1.4 at 174.1, papers up 4.97 at 925.06 and golds up .01 at 57.79.

OIL SEARCH PLANNED IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis Friday announced Imperial Oil Co. Ltd. has asked for authority to drill for oil on both shores of the St. Lawrence River between Quebec City and Montreal.

Mr. Duplessis told a press conference first drilling will probably start on the north side of the river. It is believed natural gas emanations in the Trois-Rivieres and Yamachiche regions have led the company to investigate the area as a possible source of oil.

Small Rise in Exports Nips Wheat Carryover

WINNIPEG (CP)—Improved to a scant 8,000 bushels from export loadings and moderate domestic usage reduced Canadian wheat stocks to 341,600,000 bushels at the close of business May 19 from 345,400,000 bushels the previous week, the board of grain commissioners reports. Stocks a year ago were 264,000,000 bushels.

The export loadings represented the best movement since Oct. 7, 1953, and the fourth heaviest weekly shipments of the current crop season. Domestic movement was somewhat lighter during the week, reflecting principally a cutback in volume moving into United States channels which fell off.

The board of grain commissioners reported Friday that principal markets for April were Brazil 3,500,000 bushels, United Kingdom 1,700,000, and Switzerland 1,500,000.

Wheat exports so far this crop year (August to April) totaled 152,100,000 bushels, down from the clearances of 1952-53 and 1951-52, but well above the nine-month total for the previous three seasons.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian wheat exports during April totaled 11,500,000 bushels, a decline of 2,800,000 bushels from the previous month and the lightest April movement since 1950. The 10-year average for April is 17,300,000 bushels.

BRIDGE LESSON
By Oswald Jacoby

The tournament now being held in New York City reminds me of a hand that I played in a New York tournament just about a year ago. The hand presents a neat problem in the proper play of the trump suit.

I liked the South hand well enough to make a slam try even though my partner's first response had been only two trumps. My partner, properly directed, he held far more than I could reasonably expect. He therefore accepted the slam invitation.

West opened the king of clubs, and I won with the singleton ace. I wanted the correct play of this trump combination? Should I take the ace of trumps and lead another trump to the dummy?

Should I begin by leading a low trump towards dummy's queen? Should I get to dummy with a diamond and lead a trump towards my hand? If so, which trump?

The "right" play depends on how the missing four trumps are divided. The problem is to find a line of play that works against most of the combinations.

My solution, which I suggest as the standard way of playing this kind of combination, was to lead the eight of hearts from my hand towards the dummy. When West played low, I played dummy's low trump!

East won with the jack of hearts, of course, and returned a club. I ruffed, entered dummy by cashing the ace of diamonds and overtaking the queen with dummy's king, cashed the jack of diamonds to discard my losing spade, and then led dummy's queen of hearts.

East played low without a quiver, but I nevertheless finished. The finesse held and therefore my slam contract was assured.

The reason for this line of play is that West can hardly afford to play a low trump at first. If he wins the first trick with the jack and then follows suit with a low trump, it is safe to assume that East also has the king of trumps. If West has any singleton or doubton and also if West has any triplet except K-x-x. Other plans depend on good guesswork as well as on good play. In adopting my recommended line of play, however, South should lead the lowest possible card for the finesse (the eight rather than the ten). This tends to conceal from West that South may have a finesse in mind. If West suspected a finesse, he might play low with K-x.

'Who's This Guy Joe?'

Out to beat Joe McCarthy's TV rating next Thursday will be Edgar Bergen's irrepressible Charlie. TV columnist Bill Parker rates this team high on your must list. (See below).

WEEK'S TV ROUND-UP

Canada's Les Nielson In 'Castle in Spain'

By BILL PARKER
A Canadian lad will be co-starring in Studio One's production of "Castle in Spain" over CBUT at 10 p.m. Monday.

Leslie Nielson, one of TV's busiest actors, hails from Regina. He is a former student of UCLA, and is married to singer Monica Boyar.

Nielson will play opposite Joan Lorrain, well-known for her performance in the Broadway hit "Come Back Little Sheba."

Popular radio and TV team of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy will lead the cast on Kraft TV Theatre, Thursday night.

The comical pair will star in Kraft's presentation of "Alice in Wonderland" on CBUT at 9:30 p.m. Thursday. Robin Morgan and Art Carney will take supporting roles.

Canadian TV audiences on this coast will be pleased to hear about the CBC's latest development at the new Vancouver studios.

Nine live shows, now being rehearsed, will go before the cameras in a "dry run" this coming week.

Some of these prospective programs may become regular five-day-per-week shows if accepted; others will be thrown out.

First live show is expected to be televised during the first week in July.

Ont. Extends Liquor Rights to Indians
TORONTO (UPI)—Ontario followed three other provinces today in offering its 36,000 Indians the same drinking rights as white men, starting on Canada's 87th birthday.

The provincial cabinet passed an order-in-council asking the federal government to lift restrictions in the Indian Act by July 1.

Ottawa was expected to agree to the request as readily as it did to those from British Columbia, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Two FOR THE Show

By PHIL LEE

AS—Dress: Class A—Don't Miss BB—Worthwhile: B—For a Rainy Afternoon: C—To Put 'em Time

(BB) "THUNDER OVER THE PLAINS" (Dominion)—This Warner Bros. Technicolor gunsmoke is proof enough that at last Hollywood is attempting to put western actions together in such a manner that, although they may not be epic, at least they don't try to insult the intelligence of the average theatre-goer.

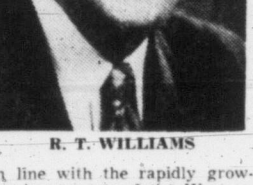

There isn't anything extraordinary about "Thunder Over the Plains." No matter how you view it, it is merely another "oater." But the plot and acting under the direction of Andre de Toth are kept to a sensible level, with the result that the yarn written by Russell Hughes makes for good, solid entertainment if you just want to go to forget your woes in the trouble of Capt. David Porter and his wife Norah.

As it happens the captain (Randolph Scott) and his wife (Phyllis Kirk) have trouble enough. He, a Texan, is responsible for keeping down fellow Texans who are out after the post Civil War carpetbaggers. The carpetbaggers are doing them out of all their goods and chattels by low-down conning tricks that make Captain Porter write in shame at the job he has to perform. To make matters worse, fellow-officer Capt. Bill Hodges (Lex Barker) breaks all rules of command and also makes passes at the captain's wife.

If you have a yen for a gunsmoke you can safely recommend this one.

R. T. WILLIAMS
In line with the rapidly growing importance of the Western Canadian market, the Easy Washing Machine Co. Limited has appointed Mr. R. T. (Ron) Williams to the post of Merchandise Manager for Western Canada, responsible for merchandising of Easy and Vornado products in the four Western provinces. Mr. Williams was formerly in a B & G. of the Company's Vancouver District office.

Arts Centre Will Present Amateur Plays

The Greater Victoria Arts Centre will launch a new amateur theatre group June 14 and 15 with two plays to be presented each night, it was learned today.

Fostered by arts centre curator Colin Graham, the new players, who prefer to remain individually anonymous, will present at 8:30 p.m. "Phoenix Too Frequent" by Christopher Fry, and "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan.

Accommodation is available for 150 patrons, and charge will be $1 per person.

If the public lends support it is the intention of the group to present plays monthly, including "Shakespeare in modern dress."

Newfoundland Premier Termed 'Liar, Crook'
ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Opposition leader Malcolm Hollett angrily denounced Premier Joseph Smallwood as a "contemptible liar and a crook" in the Newfoundland legislature Thursday and the a roused House was sharply rebuked by the speaker for "impertinence."

Mr. Hollett's blast followed an accusation by the premier that the opposition leader at one time said the people of Newfoundland were too lazy to work.

Seattle Yacht Dorade Leads in Swiftsure Race

Eleven-year-old Arvid Andersen was one of several hundred Dallas Road spectators who watched start of the annual Swiftsure ocean yacht race at 10 a.m. today. Fifteen entries got away to one of the closest starts in recent years, with Capt. Billy Holms' Dragoon, lone Victoria entry, first across the line by inches off Brothie Ledge. The annual 126-mile race to the lightship and return started under sunny skies with light winds prevailing. Winds in the Strait were expected to be westerly, 15 to 20 miles an hour, indicating that the smaller yachts will be the leading contenders for the trophy. Early this afternoon, as the racers beat toward Race Rocks, the Seattle Yacht Club sloop, Dorade, was in the lead, closely followed by the schooner Red Jacket (Seattle) and Polho III (also of Seattle, formerly called Gossip, and a three-time winner). Other yachts, in order were: Adios (Seattle), Alatola (Corinthian Yacht Club), Maruffa (Seattle), Dragoon (Victoria), Westward Ho (Corinthian), Circe (Seattle), Gometa (Vancouver), Totem (Corinthian), Jenetta (Vancouver), Reverie (Tacoma), Elusive (Vancouver) and Armida (Corinthian).—(Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Australian Gov't Wins Re-Election

SPLIT SECOND TIMING FOR EVENTS AT B.E.G.

Recording the exact times established by the Commonwealth's best athletes will be done by the most modern instruments in existence at the British Empire Games in Vancouver in August. There'll even be photo-finish equipment for the top running events.

Andy O'Brien tells about it in a special article in Weekend Picture Magazine in this issue.

Menzies Coalition Has Majority Cut

SYDNEY (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies' Liberal-Country Party coalition has been re-elected with a reduced majority, it was indicated at the close of counting of votes tonight in Australia's general election.

Incomplete returns apparently ensured the government's return to power with a majority of approximately seven seats over the Labor opposition.

The government appeared certain of 60 seats to 55 for Labor. The remaining six were doubtful with four considered likely to go to the coalition forces.

Menzies, Opposition Leader Herbert V. Evatt and External Affairs Minister Richard Casey all won personal victories.

Early returns had given the Socialist-minded Labor party its expected advantage in big-city constituencies, but Liberal and Country party candidates were doing well in rural areas.

W. Anderson, president of the Liberal party, assured party supporters tonight that "We shall continue in office."

The AP estimated Labor would win five or six seats from the government and lose one. The Opposition needs a net gain of eight seats to gain a majority.

The Menzies' coalition held 68 seats to Labor's 53 in the last House.

WIDE MARGIN
Evatt, who won his suburban Sydney seat by a bare 243 votes in the 1951 election, led a Liberal opponent by a margin of nearly 4,000 in the final results for the night, with 6,000 ballots still to be counted.

Menzies won his Kooyong seat in Victoria by a wide margin.

Tickets Drawn On 'Richest' Irish Sweep

DUBLIN (AP)—Tickets were drawn today in the Irish national hospital sweepstakes, in which lucky holders will share in a prize fund of £1,760,000, biggest in the last 68 sweeps drawings.

Total sweepstakes proceeds were £2,988,000. After deducting the prize funds and a tax of £550,000, "Irish hospitals" will share in the remainder. The drawing was on the Derby, to be run at Epsom Downs next Wednesday.

There will be 14 first prizes of £50,000 each, 14 of £20,000, 14 of £10,000, 322 prizes on horses that run but are not among the first three, bringing £740 each, 2,800 prizes of £100, 4,200 of £50 and 50 residual prizes of £1,600.

Half Million See Pius X Canonized

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius X, who died only 40 years ago, was canonized a saint of the Roman Catholic Church today in a majestic ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

An estimated half-million people stood in hushed silence under a blazing sun as Pope Pius XII pronounced the ancient Latin formula that elevated Giuseppe Sarto, Pius X, to the church's highest honor.

The Pope made the pronouncement at 6:45 p.m. (10:45 a.m. PDT).

In a speech to the assembled crowd and the radio listeners, the 78-year-old reigning Pope expressed the wish that the spirit of the new saint would "penetrate the conference halls of nations" to help in banishing forever "the fear of cataclysms."

Pius XII invoked the new saint, directly asking him to "bring it about that this troubled world witness the triumph of that peace which should mean harmony among nations." (See story, Page 18.)

ON MT. McKINLEY

Rescuers 1,000 Ft. From Injured Man

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A rescue party of eight men clawed its way today up the rugged slopes of snow-covered Mount McKinley, toward a tiny tent housing a man they hope is still alive.

The rescue party, spurred by clearing weather and air-dropped provisions, radioed its base this morning it was within 1,000 feet of the tent in which Pte. George Argus is lying. The rescuers said they expected to reach the tent by late afternoon.

The tent was sighted from the air late Friday night, by Morton Wood, one of three survivors of a 1,000-foot fall May 15 which killed one man and left Argus helpless with a broken hip.

As a swirling snowstorm, which had made flight over the area impossible, let up Friday night, the United States Air Force flew Wood over McKinley in a C-47. He spotted the tent standing undamaged at the 11,000-foot level.

From the plane, Wood gave radioed instruction to the ground party, and with renewed hope that Argus might still be alive, the rescuers below pushed ahead.

DROPPED PROVISIONS
The air force also dropped the ground party provisions.

The ground party was split in two sections. In the lead were five experienced mountain climbers. Another rescue group of three men followed them.

The 25-year-old Argus was left on the mountainside when Wood and Les Vliet, a third survivor, had to give up their attempt to bring him down the tortuous slopes alone. They left Argus in the tent last Sunday after spending a week waiting for help that never came.

Argus was warmly wrapped, lying on an air mattress. He had enough food to carry him through this week.

The temperature, at the tent level, was 10 to 50 degrees above zero.

Sir Hillary Carried Down To Medical Aid

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—This first anniversary of the conquest of Mount Everest found the world anxiously awaiting news of Sir Edmund Hillary, last reported lying ill with pneumonia on Barun Glacier—only a few miles from the scene of his epic climb.

In Darjeeling, Tenzing, the Sherpa guide who on this day a year ago stood side by side with Hillary on the summit of Everest, waited for news of his friend. He knows well the grave danger of lung illness at Himalayan heights.

Early today he offered Buddhist prayers for the New Zealanders' safety.

Hillary is understood to have been carried down about 6,000 feet on a stretcher to a level around 14,000 feet, where penicillin, oxygen and medical aid are available from an American expedition in the area, as well as the New Zealanders.

Mountaineers estimate he has a "very good chance" of getting over the pneumonia.

Squamish, Port Moody Liquor Votes Set

Liquor plebiscites will be held in Squamish and Port Moody on June 16 and 17, respectively, the provincial cabinet announced Friday.

No date has yet been set for the liquor plebiscites asked for by Saanich and Central Saanich.

ENGLISH GIRL CRACKS FIVE-MINUTE MILE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Diane Leather of Birmingham became the first woman to run a mile in less than five minutes, when she clocked four minutes, 59.6 seconds here today.

Miss Leather, 22-year-old Birmingham University microanalyst, accomplished her feat 23 days after Roger Bannister, British medical student, ran the mile in 3 minutes, 59.4 seconds at Oxford, England.

Liquor Act Change Considered To Allow Restaurant Cocktails

BY TOM GOULD
Times Legislative Reporter

The provincial government is giving active consideration to major policy changes in the implementation of B.C.'s new liquor act.

One of the changes, on which a decision is expected within six months, is that of allowing restaurants not attached to hotels to serve cocktails, in addition to wines and beer.

It is felt that after a six-month period in which "bugs" can be worked out of the new act, a number of restaurants will be allowed dining lounge licenses, instead of the dining room licenses now available.

Government officials say the current policy is one of "wait-and-see," but that in view of evidence already coming to light, the changes are almost certain.

Germ War Tests

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Navy confirmed today that a British tank landing ship, Ben Lomond, has returned to Nassau after carrying out secret germ-warfare tests in the Caribbean area.

AUSTRALIAN CAPTURES BRITISH GOLF CROWN

GULLANE, Scotland (UP)—Doug Bachli, a tiny, 34-year-old Australian pub-owner, battled from behind to win the British Amateur golf championship today, defeating Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., 2 and 1.

After being 1 down at the 27th Bachli squared the match again at the 32nd, when Campbell drove into the rough. Campbell got into more trouble off the 33rd tee and conceded the hole, putting Bachli 1 up. On the 34th Campbell fluffed his second shot, missed a 15-foot putt and Bachli was dormie two. The 35th was halved and the match was over.

'ORDERLY, NO TROUBLE'

No Stampede of Drinkers To City Eating Places

Predictions that liquor consumption would greatly increase under B.C. new drinking system have not been borne out by Victoria's first week during the plan.

A survey of restaurant owners who are now serving wine and beer with meals in the city reveals that operation of the new act is anti-climate.

All owners report "orderly drinking, and no trouble. Patrons who take wine or beer have "one or two" with their meal, and then leave.

There has been no rush or stampede to the new outlets, although food sales are up as much as 20 per cent in one restaurant.

Many customers merely have exchanged a coffee and a sandwich for a beer and a sandwich. All outlets report "no difficulty."

At least one owner is finding that serving wine and beer is not as profitable as was expected. Labor costs are increased, and in the words of the operator: "It looks like a small net profit for a lot of extra work."

The Strathcona started serving wines Friday night, joining Paul's Dominion and Sussex, and the Cameo, while the Waldorf will start liquor serving operations next week.

French, Reds to Talk Truce; Conference Credited to Eden

GENEVA (Reuters)—The nine powers discussing an Indo-China settlement today agreed to a meeting of French and Viet Minh military delegates next week to arrange cease-fire terms.

A conference source said the nine-power talks are "going well" and cables have already been sent to Indo-China to summon the military delegates to Geneva.

The key points at issue on today's agenda, he said, were settled, paving the way for the talks.

The decision to invite representatives of the rival high commands in Indo-China marked the first major decision of the Far East conference. But Western officials emphasized there are still serious obstacles to overcome before the shooting can be stopped in the war.

It was understood the agreement came in a surprise call British Foreign Secretary Eden made Friday night on Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. Eden

Gibson Asks Full Probe Of PGE Plans

VANCOUVER (BUP)—James Gordon Gibson (Lib. Lillooet) today called for an investigation into the entire Pacific Great Eastern Railway construction program.

The demand came on the heels of a report Friday and subsequent denial by the Social Credit government of plans to drop the proposed Squamish to North Vancouver link of the government-owned line.

Gibson said after hearing a report carried in a Vancouver newspaper: "I am convinced that a full investigation should be made on all phases of the railway construction before any actual work is undertaken."

The report quoted Premier W. A. C. Bennett as saying that he had been "misinformed" regarding the route over which the line should pass.

U.S. Nabs Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven more Communist party leaders were arrested today on charges of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the U.S. government by force and violence.

FINAL BULLETINS

Manitoban Heads Young Liberals

OTTAWA (BUP)—William Appleby, 30, of St. Boniface, Man., today was elected president of the National Young Liberal Federation.

Appleby, a lawyer and former national treasurer of the organization, succeeded Guy Rouleau, MP for Dollard-St. Laurent. He was elected on the first ballot.

New Defense HQ, Says Newspaper

OTTAWA (CP)—The Citizen says today it has learned the federal government is considering construction of a new headquarters building for the defense department.

The newspaper said an elaborate system of underground vaults and offices will also be constructed, which in war-time presumably could be used as a cabinet room or as an underground command centre for the armed forces.

4 Out of 5 Have Drinkless Meals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four out of five customers of Vancouver's licensed restaurants have made no use of their newly-won "liquor with meals" rights.

A survey of eating places licensed to serve wines, ales and beers has shown that only one in five customers orders wine or beer with meals.

Operators say the drinking public wants cocktails with meals, and that this is the main reason they don't order wine and beer.

$100 Tax Seen for Liquor Outlets

VANCOUVER (CP)—An annual tax of $100 may be levied on liquor establishments here under the city's new charter issued last year. Council will consider a draft by-law Monday that calls for the same fee from all premises, regardless of the type of license held. At present only beer parlors pay a city license worth about $85.

Civilian Plane Missing in B.C.

GRAND FORKS, B.C. (CP)—A light American Cessna plane with two men aboard was overdue here today on a flight from Spokane.

The plane, piloted by Richard E. Bond of Spokane, left the inland empire city early this morning and was last reported three hours overdue on the 100-mile flight.

2 U.S. Fishermen Die in Air Crash

EARLTON, Ont. (BUP)—Two American fishermen were killed today when their private plane exploded and crashed shortly after taking off from a northern Ontario airport.

Airport officials said they were withholding the names and home towns of the victims until their next-of-kin have been advised.

The light Cessna developed engine trouble and the pilot was attempting to re-land when an explosion shattered the plane before it crashed on the airstrip.

Australian Government Re-Elected

Menzies Coalition Has Majority Cut

SYDNEY (CP)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies' Liberal-Country Party coalition has been re-elected with a reduced majority, it was indicated at the close of counting of votes tonight in Australia's general election.

Incomplete returns apparently ensured the government's return to power with a majority of approximately seven seats over the Labor opposition.

The government appeared certain of 60 seats to 55 for Labor. The remaining six were doubtful with four considered likely to go to the coalition forces.

Menzies' Opposition Leader Herbert V. Evatt and External Affairs Minister Richard Casey all won personal victories.

RURAL VOTE HELPS

Early returns had given the Socialist-minded Labor party its expected advantage in big-city constituencies, but Liberal and Country party candidates were doing well in rural areas.

W. Anderson, president of the Liberal party, assured party supporters tonight that "We shall continue in office."

The AP-estimated Labor would win five or six seats from the government and lose one. The Opposition needs a net gain of eight seats to gain a majority.

The Menzies' coalition held 68 seats to Labor's 53 in the last House.

WIDE MARGIN

Evatt, who won his suburban Sydney seat by a bare 243 votes in the 1951 election, led a Liberal opponent by a margin of nearly 4,000 in the final returns for the night, 6,000 ballots still to be counted.

Menzies won his Kooyong seat in Victoria by a wide margin.

Seattle Yacht Dorade Leads in Swiftsure Race

Eleven-year-old Arvid Andersen was one of several hundred Dallas Road spectators who watched start of the annual Swiftsure ocean yacht race at 10 a.m. today. Fifteen entries got away to one of the closest starts in recent years, with Capt. Billy Holms' Dragoon, lone Victoria entry, first across the line by inches off Brocthite Ledge. The annual 126-mile race to the lightship and return started under sunny skies, with light winds prevailing. Winds in the Strait were expected to be westerly, 15 to 20 miles an hour, indicating that the smaller yachts will be the leading contenders for the trophy. Early this afternoon, as the racers beat toward Race Rocks, the Seattle Yacht Club sloop, Dorade, was in the lead, closely followed by the schooner Red Jacket (Seattle) and Polho III (also of Seattle, formerly called Gossip, and a three-time winner). The Dragoon was in sixth place. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Policy Change Considered To Allow Restaurant Cocktails

BY TOM GOULD
Times Legislative Reporter

The provincial government is giving active consideration to major policy changes in the implementation of B.C.'s new liquor act.

One of the changes, on which a decision is expected within six months, is that of allowing restaurants not attached to hotels to serve cocktails, in addition to wines and beer.

The Menzies' coalition held 68 seats to Labor's 53 in the last House.

It is felt that after a six-month period in which "bugs" can be worked out of the new act, a number of restaurants will be allowed dining lounge licenses, instead of the dining room licenses now available.

Government officials say the current policy is one of "wait-and-see," but that in view of evidence already coming to light, the changes are almost certain.

One of the most vital pieces of evidence is the manner in which the new outlets have been accepted by residents of the areas in which outlets now have been opened.

There has been no rush on the outlets, in fact most operators say they are surprised at the small amount of liquor sales.

At the fall session of the Legislature last year, when the new act was approved, some members including government members reached the conclusion, after a survey of the act, that restaurants would be granted dining lounge licenses.

There is nothing in the act specifically denying them the dining lounge type of license.

Restaurant owners and their customers have been unanimous in opposing the present policy, of allowing the sale only of wine and beer.

The restaurants, at least those which have been in operation for more than a month, are discovering the same fact experienced by Ontario cafes which served wine and beer only; it doesn't pay.

Customers feel the government has denied them their right to drink cocktails, and liquors, with meals, as well as wine and beer.

Not even a change in regulations would be required to bring about the change. The regulations state only that dining lounge licenses will be issued "principally" to cabarets and clubs.

Rescuers 1,000 Ft. From Injured Man

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A rescue party of eight men clawed its way today up the rugged slopes of snow-covered Mount McKinley, toward a tiny tent housing a man they hope is still alive.

The rescue party, spurred by clearing weather and air-dropped provisions, radioed its base this morning it was within 1,000 feet of the tent in which Pfc. George Argus is lying. The rescuers said they expected to reach the tent by late afternoon.

newed hope that Argus might still be alive, the rescuers below pushed ahead.

The air force also dropped the ground party provisions.

The ground party was split in two sections. In the lead were five experienced mountain climbers. Another rescue group of three men followed them.

The 25-year-old Argus was left on the mountainside when Wood and Les Viereck, a third survivor, had to give up their attempt to bring him down the treacherous slopes alone. They left Argus in the tent last Sunday after spending a week waiting for help that never came.

Argus was warmly wrapped, lying on an air mattress. He had enough food to carry him through this week.

The temperature, at the tent level, was 10 to 50 degrees above zero.

Bachli in Comeback To Defeat U.S. Star

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Doug Bachli, former Australian amateur champion, defeated an erratic Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 2 and 1, today in the 36-hole final of the British amateur golf championship.

The friendly, non-drinking, non-smoking saloon owner played steady golf all the way while Campbell varied from the near spectacular to the duffer style.

Bachli was two down after the first two holes, didn't move out in front until the 20th hole and was still one down to the big American as late as the 31st.

Then Campbell lost three holes in a row to the less spectacular but steadier Bachli. They shared the 35th, and final hole, when Campbell landed in the rough with his second shot and had to scramble to get a halve. But it wasn't enough.

GALLERY OF 2,500

The day started out with a cold wind off the Firth of Forth sweeping over the 6,806 yards of the par 36-72 layout. Less than 100 spectators huddled together for companionship and warmth. By the end of the morning round, however, the sun had come out and the gallery had grown to 2,000.

An estimated 2,500 followed the two in the afternoon round.

Half Million Hear Pius X Made Saint

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius X, who died only 40 years ago, was canonized a saint of the Roman Catholic Church today in a majestic ceremony in St. Peter's Square.

An estimated half million people stood in hushed silence under a blazing sun as Pope Pius XII pronounced the ancient Latin formula that elevated Giuseppe Sarto, Pius X, to the church's highest honor.

The Pope made the pronouncement at 6:45 p.m. (10:45 a.m. PDT).

In a speech to the assembled crowd and the radio listeners, the 78-year-old reigning Pope expressed the wish that the spirit of the new saint would "penetrate the conference halls of nations" to help in banishing forever "the fear of Catholics."

Tickets Drawn On 'Richest' Irish Sweep

DUBLIN (AP)—Tickets were drawn today in the Irish national hospitals sweepstakes, in which lucky holders will share in a prize fund of £1,760,000, biggest in the last 68 sweeps drawings.

Total sweepstakes proceeds were £2,988,000. After deducting the prize funds and a tax of £550,000, Irish hospitals will share in the remainder. The drawing was on the Derby, to be run at Epsom Downs next Wednesday.

There will be 14 first prizes of £50,000 each, 14 of £20,000, 14 of £10,000, 322 prizes of £1,000 each, 2,800 prizes of £100 each, 4,200 of £10 and 50 residual prizes of £1,000.

ENGLISH GIRL CRACKS FIVE-MINUTE MILE

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Diane Leather of Birmingham became the first woman to run a mile in less than five minutes, when she clocked four minutes, 59.6 seconds here today.

Miss Leather, 22-year-old Birmingham University microanalyst, accomplished her feat 23 days after Roger Bannister, British medical student, ran the mile in 3 minutes, 59.4 seconds at Oxford, England.

ALSOPS ON NEW RED BOMBERS

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON—The Soviet heavy bomber program is now approximately two years ahead of the schedule forecast for it by the American military intelligence analysis.

Because of this unforeseen success, the air-atomic striking power of the Soviet Union, now being reinforced with hydrogen bombs, may soon be fairly close to catching up with America's air-atomic striking power.

An American lead can no doubt be maintained. But two years are perhaps allowed, before this country is gravely threatened by the Soviet Strategic Air Army, as the Soviet Union is now threatened by our Strategic Air Command.

This short run prospect, combined with the somewhat longer run but no less bleak prospects in the field of intercontinental guided missiles, can be expected to have far-reaching effects on American and free world planning and policy.

The world knows one—but only one—of the facts that form the basis of the foregoing new assessment. In the May Day air show at Moscow, the Red Air Force somewhat ostentatiously exhibited a new engine-jet bomber. This plane, called the Tupolev-39, is comparable to our own B-52.
